Kennedy Says Integration On Right Line

WASHINGTON (AP) President Kennedy says he thinks "we are going at about the right tempo" on racial integration and that he does not believe Americans will make the "fatal mistake" of dividing politically along racial lines.

He said the recent desegregation of schools in 150 Southern cities "is an impressive story" reflecting great credit on Southerners who put respect for the law about emotion.

The President gave these views Thursday in a news conference during which he also put in another strong plug for Senate ratification of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, announced he would address the United Nations next month, and defined U. S. policy in South Viet Nam.

Asked about a Gallup poll in which 50 per cent of those replying thought he was "pushing integration too fast," Kennedy said he thought the figure was accurate.

But he said he considered it "rather impressing" that another 40 per cent replied that the pace was "more or less right."

He said "change always disturbs, and, therefore, I was surprised that there wasn't greater opposition."

Bringing up the school desegregation subject in an opening statement, Kennedy had high praise for "the vast majority" of Southerners.

He noted that five federal judges who signed a school desegregation order in Alabama "were all from Alabama, all grew up in Alabama, and I am sure shared the veiws of the majority of Alabamans who, I think are not for desegregation, but, nevertheless, met their responsibilities under the law."

Establish Four New Committees

"The Sedalia Bi-Racial Committee has established four sub-committees to begin a program of research and education," according to the Rev. William E. Lusk, chairman of the local group.

Lusk, who made the statement at an informal meeting of the committee with Peter C. Robertson, executive director of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, said the group wanted to learn just what the factual situation is in Sedalia.

The four sub-committees and their chairmen are: Speakers Committee, Jim Reed; Public Accomodations Committee, Herbert Jones; Recreational Facilities Committee, Mayor L. L. Studer.

Lusk explained that the committee felt research was necessary "before taking any action." He said the Speakers Committee was organized because it was felt "that community education is one of the most important ways to advance equal rights."

Robertson told the local group, which met at the home of Jim Reed, about the activities of local commissions in other state communities and said that he was "very impressed with the progress being made in Sedalia.

Last of 4 Negroes In Narcotics Case Makes $6,000 Bond

Bond was met late Thursday afternoon by the last of four Negroes charged here with illegal possession of narcotics.

Eli R. Gilbert, 39, 108 West Johnson, was the last to meet the $6,000 bond. The amount was supplied by the Alex Fazzino Bonding Company, Kansas City, the same firm which earlier in the day provided bond for the release of Matti H. McColum, 23, and Gloria M. Doyal, 25, both of Kansas City.

Richard G. (Little Richard) Thomas, 38, 820 North Missouri, was released on bond Tuesday.

Bonds for the four are returnable here on Wednesday, Sept. 25, the date of preliminary hearing. The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. before Judge Frank Armstrong in Magistrate Court.

JFK Braces For Movement In Campaign

Takes Short Jab At Some Rivals, In Press Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has started limbering up for the 1964 presidential campaign by cuffing a couple of potential Republican rivals and spanking some young Democrats.

Kennedy was generally in a relaxed mood at his news conference Thursday. But he had an edge in his voice when he rebuked Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for having said in a Chicago speech that there were not 10 men in America who know the full truth about Cuba, all the facts about the limited nuclear test ban treaty or commitments made with the Communists.

Goldwater is regarded as a contender for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

"There are no commitments," Kennedy said, "and I think Senator Goldwater is at least one of the ten men in America who would know that is not true. I think there are a good many other men."

Asked if he would comment "on this type of attack by Senator Goldwater," Kennedy indicated that would come later.

"No, no," he said, "Not yet, not yet" and smiled broadly.

Kennedy took in stride a question about New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's statement that he was withdrawing his promise not to raise state taxes because the Kennedy administration hadn't produced the economic growth which would have made such action unnecessary. Rockefeller also is a Republican presidential candidate possibility.

Negro Army Cook To Stand Trial In Death of White Wife

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP)—A Negro Army cook must stand district court trial on a charge of murdering his white wife.

Following a preliminary hearing Thursday, Judge G. W. Smith ordered Spec. 5 William Shorter, 35, held under $25,000 bond.

Shorter's wife, Theresia, 30, was beaten to death Aug. 21 at a trailer court where she operated a beauty parlor.

Bigger Red Lights Plan On Broadway

(See Editorial Page 4)

The Citizens' Traffic Advisory Committee action Wednesday night on traffic lights at Broadway and Engineer, Broadway and Grand, Broadway and Massachusetts and Broadway and Ohio, called for installation of bigger red lights—the 12-inch size. This fact was not clearly stated in yesterday's story concerning the committee's action on lights at the four intersections in question.

Other action revealed in a copy of the minutes of the meeting furnished Mayor L. L. Studer was:

"It was brought up by the committee that sometime in the near future that we would ask the mayor and City Council to secure a reliable traffic concern to make a survey of the needs of the City of Sedalia, as no one on the committee are experts and we feel that in the past 15 years with the traffic increase, the city needs some expert surveying. We are not asking for this now only that it be given some thought for future dates."

Present at the meeting were W. A. Smith, chairman; Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin, Damon Hieronymus, Fire Chief Emmett Vaught, all committee members.

Absent members were: City Engineer Bob Cunningham, Pinkney Miller, W. D. Hill, U. L. Howerton, John McCloskey, and Carl Meyer.

Gives Himself Away

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—City Patrolman James Mallette accepted when ex-convict Carl Wesley Brown offered to buy the policeman's breakfast.

But Mallette later told his superiors of the big roll of money Brown was carrying. This led to an investigation which led to the arrest of Brown in connection with the $500 burglary of a gas station owned by his brother-in-law.

One Holdout Democrat Backs Treaty

Senator Jackson, Once Pact's Foe, Will Vote 'Yes'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson came out today in favor of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, saying its risks are serious but acceptable.

The Washington Democrat, who served as President Kennedy's Democratic national chairman during the 1960 presidential campaign, had been generally regarded as one of the treaty's principal critics.

In his announcement today, Jackson said he was compelled to conclude from the evidence that the agreement involves "serious—perhaps even formidable—military and technical disadvantages." But he added that with assured safeguards for the nation's security, "I believe that the Senate may prudently give its advice and consent to ratification."

Jackson's removal of himself from the doubtful list enhanced the chances for ratification of the pact by a substantial margin over the necessary two-thirds majority.

Jackson, who spearheaded the Senate Armed Service Committee's demand for ironclad safeguards proposed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is chairman of the weapons subcommittee of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Jackson's announcement follows by a day President Kennedy's appeal at his news conference for the widest margin of Senate approval of the treaty.

"Grudging support," the President said, would impair U.S. prospects for world leadership.

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, Jackson laid heavy emphasis on the risks he said would be involved in the pact which would prohibit all nuclear testing except underground.

"We must understand what is required to protect and maintain the Free World's ability to deter or survive a nuclear attack and to respond effectively against any aggressor," Jackson declared. "We must be ready to pursue the necessary policies without reservations of mind or heart."

Thursday, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., an avowed foe of the pact, formally offered an amendment to the resolution of ratification. It would assert the Senate's insistence that any changes the Soviet Union or any other nation may offer to the treaty must be brought back to the Senate for ratification.

Indians Like Segregation

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — While the nation's attention is focused on the battle for Negro civil rights the native American Indian is waging his own independence struggle in reverse.

Unlike the Negro, who demands integration with the white man, the Indian is fighting to remain a separate and distinct race.

Where the Negro wants equalty, the Indian asserts he is entitled to more than that—every advantage enjoyed by the whites, plus recognition as survivors of a once sovereign power.

War councils to obtain those aims met in Bismarck this past week, during the 20th annual convention of the National Congress of American Indians. The congress claims to represest some 400,000 of the estimated 600,000 Indians on reservations across the country.

"We are first-class citizens and more," contended Robert Burnette executive secretary of the congress.

"After all, the government is bound by treaties made with the Indians when we were just as powerful as the United States. These treaties should not be broken today, just because we're not as strong as we once were."

Burnette, 37, a former Marine who once servedas chairman of the Rosebud Sioux Reservation in South Dakota, repeatedly has accused white law enforcement officers in South Dakota of beating, raping and mistreating Indian prisoners.

After two public hearings on the charges, South Dakota Gov. Archie Gubbrud summed up Burnette's accusations as baseless and irresponsible.

But this is only one angle of the battle.

The real problem, says Walter Wetzel, congress president, is helping the Indian rise out of the rural slums of the reservation and make his contribution to society.

"There isn't enough development of our reservations," said Wetzel, 48, chairman of the Blackfeet Tribe of Montana.

"We need financial support — loans and aid to build an economy that will be self-sustaining."

Hearings Marred By Students

Five Are Ejected By Un-American Activities Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of students who went to Cuba in defiance of a government ban staged another demonstration today at a House hearing, and four were forcible ejected from the room.

Police carried two out bodily.

The demonstrations began when Philip A. Luce, 26, of New York, who was in the witness chair, made some remarks about Negro voting in Louisiana and Virginia.

There was applause from spectators.

"Okay, throw them out," Chairman Edwin E. Willis D-La., said, and police moved in on the leaders of the applause.

Another young man had been thrown out of the building earlier for harrangueing police in the corridor outside the hearing room.

A half dozen policemen carried the struggling-screaming youth downstairs from the third floor.

He was one of about 50 young people in beatnik clothes sho milled around outside the room after being denied admission by police seeking to avert a renewal of Thursday's near-riots.

Others in the crowd stood silently and watched as police grabbed the noisy youth.

He was identified as William Massey, 28, tall blond New Yorker whose shouts inside the committee room late Thursday helped touch off the second of two small-scale riots.

It was Massey who, after Thursday's hearing recessed, started shouting "Cuba is freer than Louisiana"—the home state of Edwin E. Willis, the committee chairman.

Police said today's struggle developed when Massey began asking them questions and haranguing the crowd outside the hearing room and refused to step back. Then he was taken out, shouting all the way.

Status Change Of Draft Age More Urgent

The September 10 presidential order terminating military induction of married men stresses even more the importance of young men providing their local Selective Service Board with current information as to their marital and dependent status.

"Registrants are required to report their personal status and changes as they occur to their local board, in writing or in person," Mrs. Verna E. Williams, clerk of the Pettis County Selective Service Board said. "Failure to keep the local board fully informed at all times could be highly detrimental to the registrant," she added.

Mrs. Williams indicated it is the desire of the local board to cooperate with all registrants to the fullest in keeping each case on a current basis.

Under the order announced by President Kennedy, married registrants who had been ordered for induction are having their induction orders cancelled immediately, Mrs. Williams announced.

It was pointed out that as long as there are unmarried registrants available to meet the manpower requirements of the armed forces, married men will not be called for physical examination or induction.

To be withheld from Selective Service processing the married registrant must be living in a bona fide family relationship with his wife.

The Pettis County Selective Service office, located upstairs in the Post Office building at Fourth and Lamine, is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

St. Joseph Petition Seeks Vote On Accommodations Rule

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A referendum petition will force the City Council to repeal or put to a vote the public accommodations ordinance enacted Sept. 3.

The petition bore 2,026 signatures, almost 600 more than necessary to force an election.

The ordinance would prohibit racial discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants and places of entertainment; but it does not apply to taverns.

UNDERCOVER AGENT — Real estate man Barry Hoffman, of Brookline, Mass., has testified that he volunteered, and served, as an undercover agent for the FBI and Central Intelligence agency while travelling with American students who illegally visited Cuba. He is shown at a House Committee on un-American Activities hearing.

Third Witness To Stand In Dwyer Trial

Two Witnesses Say Airman Said He'd Outrun Police Car

BULLETIN

The Dwyer trial went to the jury for deliberation early Friday afternoon.

Testimony in the trial resumed at 1:15 p.m. following the noon recess and defense attorney Will Berry put Airman Dwyer on the witness stand.

Dwyer testified he was the driver of the car involved in the fatal accident and stated he had no previous arrests. He testified about five minutes when the defense rested its case and testimony in the trial closed.

The jury was sent from the courtroom after the close of testimony while instructions from the court were prepared.

A2c George Allen Volk, who was returned from Spain to testify, was the first witness to take the stand Friday morning as the manslaughter trial of A2c William Joseph Dwyer, 21, Whiteman Air Force Base, moved into its second day in Cooper County Circuit Court at Boonville.

Airman Volk was the third witness to testify in the trial and was on the stand for a short time Thursday afternoon before court recessed for the day. He was recalled at 9:15 a.m. Friday as the trial resumed. Police Sgt. Charles Stuart, who was in a police car in pursuit of the Dwyer auto, and Officer Blankenship, who completed the police accident investigation, testified prior to Volk.

Volk testified he saw the red light of a police car about the time the car driven by Airman Dwyer turned south off of Broadway on to Sneed. Volk said he overheard Dwyer make a statement to the effect that the police car wouldn't catch him.

Volk said he did not hear the police car's siren at any time.

It was brought out in testimony that the two airmen, Dwyer and Volk, came to Sedalia the night of the auto accident, picked up two girl companions, Velma Estrada and Shirley Dale. The four had drinks at the Talk of the

Urge Walkout From Schools

Sympathy Move Sought By Some 400 Students

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Students boycotting newly integrated Birmingham schools tried again today to promote a walkout from other classrooms. They found some support, some resistance.

A crowd of more than 400 teenagers gathered for the second day at still-segregated Phillips High School and demanded that students leave class in a sympathy protest. Some Phillips boys and girls joined the crowd, others went on to school.

Hundreds of students stayed away from integrated West End High for the fourth day in a row. Many of those who assembled at Phillips were West End absentees.

Riot-trained police forced the crowd back into a park across the street, and some students left with the announced intention to visit other schools as they did Thursday.

The caravan moved on to integrated Ramsay High, but police kept the crowd from gettng within a block of the school. Then, for the first time, the demonstrators visited Shades Valley High in a wealthier section of the city, and county officers let them on the school grounds.

But teachers locked the doors and kept the Shades Valley students inside. Nearby, the school band practiced on a drill field, ignoring the crowd.

The five Negroes admitted to West End and Ramsay high schools and Graymont Elementary all were in class.

At Tuskegee, another of the four cities where schools have been desegregated, no white students showed up at the high school. At Huntsville, white and Negro pupils again went to class together wthout incident.

Meanwhile, a Negro boy and girl quietly entered Mobile's Murphy High, scene of a demonstration Thursday in which 54 white students were arrested.

A group of 30 Murphy boys gathered after the Negroes already had entered. Thty chanted the now familiar, "Two, four, six, eight, we don't want to integrate." They were dispersed by police.

Students at Phillips and several other still-segregated schools refused Thursday to join in the chanting, yelling and flag-waving demonstrations staged by carloads of teen-agers who roamed the city.

Student Pulls Gun On Principal; Ends Up In Juvenile Court

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) A 15-year-old boy who pulled a pistol on a junior high school principal Friday has been turned over to juvenile court. His name was not disclosed.

Paul Lesh, juvenile officer, said the principal, Raymond Judd, joked with the youth after the boy apparently misconstrued the remarks and became angry.

Lesh quoted the boy as saying he went home, got the .22 pistol and returned to Judd's office.

A teacher, Gene Snyder, said he grabbed the boy from behind when the gun was pointed at Judd.

Lesh said the boy denied pointing the gun at the principal.

Flying Radar Screen Alert For Missiles

New Surveillance System Revealed By Air Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force disclosed today that an airborne radar screen is keeping a missile defense watch along the eastern approaches to North America.

Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, commander of the Air Defense Command, announced that four-engine patrol planes, operating out of Otis Air Force Base, Mass., maintain surveillance by means of a new electronic defense known as Airborne Long-Range Input, known as ALRI.

Thatcher also disclosed that inauguration of the airborne system was a significant factor in the Air Force decision earlier this year to discontinue operation of the Texas Tower radar stations off the New England Coast.

He said the new system demonstrated that the ocean-based Texas Towers could be shut down without loss of adequate air defense radar surveillance.

Thatcher said planes patrol hundreds of miles out at sea to provide an improved air defense shield over the horizon and far beyond the range of shore-based radar and line-of-sight radio communications, he said.

Thatcher said the new system attained operational status this week following extensive operational tests.

From their altitude vantage points, the flying radar stations sweep the horizon seaward in all directions. The system is designed to guard against surprise attack from any flight level, right down to the water.

Target information is automatically processed and transmitted to East Coast centers by way of shore-based communication relay points and goes directly into computers to become an active part of the air defense function.

One Missing As a Launch Turns Over

PORT JEFFERSON, N.Y. (AP) —A Navy launch, returning men from shore leave in predawn rain and darkness, swamped and capsized today in the choppy long Island Sound. Twenty men rescued themselves and one was missing.

"Nobody panicked," said Chief Petty Officer Ralph L. Nelson, 43, of Middletown, R.I., a 24-year Navy veteran and senior ranking man aboard the 26-foot fiber glass craft.

"These men behaved very well and I'm damned proud of every one of them."

The accident occurred as the launch neared the destroyer Hazelwood, here for antisubmarine tests, anchored 1,200 yards off Port Jefferson, about 50 miles east of Manhattan on Long Island's north shore.

"The boat started shipping water and went down by the bow," said Lt. Cmdr. Cletus Scheperle, Navy representative attached to a civilian company working with the destroyer in the tests.

Scheperle, who told a news conference that he was not aboard the launch but had gathered his information from survivors, continued: "It was not overloaded. It went down very fast."

Five survivors, including the coxswain, John Getchel, swam the 200 yards to the Hazelwood.

"Fifteen of us hung onto the boat and it floated to the beach where the Coast Guard picked it up," Nelson said.

One man, his identity withheld, was taken to Mather Memorial Hospital here.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater is due in Bartlesville for two appearances tonight and Goldwater boosters in northeast Oklahoma say they've lined up a $30,000 campaign chest for him.

Don Kinkaid, acting secretary of the Oklahoma "Goldwater in '64 Club," said $5,000 is in cash and the remainder in pledges which will be sent to Republican national headquarters if Goldwater is nominated for president.

Gov. Henry Bellmon, first Republican governor in Oklahoma's history, is expected to be on hand for the dinner and rally. State Sen. Denzil Garrison of Bartlesville is head of the Goldwater boosters' organization in Oklahoma.

Fire Hose Cools Tempers At Pep Rally In Joplin

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A Joplin high school pep rally got a little out of hand Thursday night and a fire hose was used to cool down some of the youths.

More than 30 were arrested after they ignored orders to disperse.

About 400 youths turned out for the rally, which school officials said was not authorized.

Part of the group was initiating sophomores by rolling them down a hill in barrels. Police stopped that. Most of the crowd got into cars and paraded through town, disregarding stop lights. Police issued traffic tickets and broke up the parade.

Many youths gathered at a drive-in, blocking traffic. Police gave them five minutes to move on.

About half the group went to another drive-in and refused to leave.

Town tavern, 110 East Fifth, then went to the Twin Acres tavern, on south Highway 65, and then returned to Sedalia.

Volk testified beer was served at both tstablishments but said he did not actually see Dwyer drink any beer.

Following Volk's testimony, Mrs. Velma Estrada Smith, took the stand. She has married since the date of the auto crash which occurred early the morning of Oct. 15, 1962.

Mrs. Smith testified she did not notice any increase in speed by the Dwyer auto on Broadway. She testified she saw the police car behind them after the police car had turned around and headed westerly after the Dwyer car.

She testified she also heard Airman Dwyer make a statement to the effect that the police car would never catch him.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, one of the first law officers to arrive on the accident scene at 14th and Carr, was called to the stand and the jury was sent out of the court room during part of his testimony.

Defense attorney Will Berry, Versailles, questioned Sheriff Fairfax in regard to whether the sheriff had advised Dwyer as to his rights in making a statement about the accident.

It was brought out that on Oct. 18, Sheriff Fairfax, Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz, Highway Patrol Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle and an Air Force officer went to the Whiteman Air Force Base hospital where Dwyer was hospitalized and took a statement from the airman.

Fairfax testified he did not personally caution Dwyer about making a statement as the Air Force officer had already advised the airman of his rights and he felt to do so again would be repetition.

Airman Dwyer also took the stand for a short time while the jury was out of he room. He stated he did not specifically recall being cautioned about any statements he might make, which might later be used against him.

Dwyer also said he did not recall being notified that the warrant of manslaughter had been issued against him at that time. While on the stand Dwyer said that previous testimony concerning the drinking earlier in the evening the date of the mishap, and the route taken were substantially true.

Dwyer was removed from the witness stand and the jury returned to the courtroom about 10:50 a.m. Friday morning.

Sheriff Fairfax resumed his testimony and the prosecution introduced a diagram of the route taken by the Dwyer auto after turning on to Sneed from Broadway. Sheriff Fairfax and Prosecuting Attorney Fritz explained the diagram to the jury.

At this point in the trial a lawn caretaker started to mow the lawn outside the courthouse and Judge Frank Hayes sent Sheriff Lylburn Mann to halt the mowing.

Sheriff Fairfax testified that after he arrived at the accident scene he helped the injured Dwyer out of his auto. Fairfax said he smelled alcohol on the airman's breath at that time.

A short time later at Bothwell Hospital, Fairfax testified he saw Dwyer again and he smelled alcohol on the airman's breath again.

Dwyer suffered a broken jaw among other injuries in the accident which proved fatal to Lynn Renee Southwick, five-year-old daughter of Highway Patrol Trooper and Mrs. William T. Southwick. Dwyer remained in the base hospital until mid-January of 1963 before he was turned over to Sheriff Fairfax. Dwyer later was released on bond and has been at Whiteman AFB since that time.

At this point Judge Hayes informed the jury that testimony of Trooper Southwick, driver of the car in which his daughter was fatally injured, and Deputy Coroner J. M. Rodemann, who ruled on the accidental death, would not be taken. Judge Hayes pointed out both the prosecution and the defense had agreed in conference that the crash involving the Southwick and Dwyer cars had occurred and that the death of Lynn Renee was due to the accident.

The prosecution rested its case at 11:15 a.m. and Berry, Dwyer's attorney immediately moved for a directed acquittal. The motion, however, was denied by Judge Hayes and testimony resumed at 1 p.m.

After the selection of the jury Thursday, the trial began about 2:30 p.m. with Sgt. Stuart being the first witness on the stand.

Stuart testified for nearly two hours and was closely cross-examined by defense attorney Berry as to the sergeant's reasoning for turning his police car around and setting out in pursuit of the Dwyer auto.

Stuart testified he had no reason to arrest Dwyer as the airman drove on Broadway, but said he began pursuit after the car turned off on to Sneed abruptly.

Stuart said at a point a block away from the crash scene he noted the speedometer on his police car registering 70 miles per hour.

Officer Albert Blankenship testified following Sgt. Stuart that he was the police officer who filled out the accident report and made the routine investigation.

Airman Volk was called to the stand for only a short time before the recess Thursday afternoon.

Methodists To Conduct A Workshop

Dr. Herbert Hillme, district superintendent of the Sedalia district of the Methodist Church, states that Dr. Wayne Lindecker of Nashville, Tenn., will lead representatives of the Methodist Churches of Sedalia district in a study of the new curriculum which has been devised for children, at a workshop at the Clinton Methodist Church on Wednesday, Sept. 18, at 10 a.m.

Dr. Lindecker is a staff member of the division of the local church of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church.

Many months of study and work have gone into the rewriting of literature to be used in the Sunday Schools for children from nursery through the sixth grade.

The new materials bear the title of "Christian Studies for Methodist Children." Working from basic outlines developed by the curriculum committee of the General Board of Education, the individual lessons have been prepared by teachers in local churches, who have given them "trial runs" in regular class work.

According to Dr. Edward C. Peterson, editor of Children's Publications, Nashville, detailed reports have been received from 255 classrooms in 25 states, representing 1,019 participants in teaching teams. Some work in the curriculum revamping was done in more than 400 classes.

Although the new material will not make its appearance until September of 1964 the transition is being started now.

A new quarter system in the churches, will affect all church school material, including the children's division. Quarters will begin in September, December, March and June, officials said.

The pastors and workers from the children's division of each local church will be attending the workshop.

Mrs. Lyman Firestone of Clinton is District Director of Children's Work and has helped plan the program for the day. Dr. Hillme will give the devotions at 10 a.m. Lunch will be served by the ladies of the Clinton church.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a boy 13 years old with a terrible problem. My mother is a very nice person but she is not a very good barber. She cuts my hair and my little brother's too, and she does a lousy job of it. For a week after a haircut, I am ashamed to leave the house. All the guys in the neighborhood ask me when I am going to the electric chair.

I have told my dad how I feel about this but he says haircuts by barbers cost a lot of money and we can't afford it. He also says my hair grows like a weed and I'd have to go every other week.

Is there a solution to my problem? Or do I just have to suffer with it until I am old enough to earn some money so I can buy haircuts on my own? — SHAVED RAT

Dear S. R.: Ask your dad if he will take you to a barber college. The prices are cheaper there because students do the cutting.

The price of haircuts is no joke these days. But they havent' gone up any more than most other commodities and services. It just seems that way to us old fogies who remember when a shave and a haircut was two-bits.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who is 17 invited a college roommate whom I will call Helena to spend two weeks with us. It's too late to do anything about THIS guest but I am writing to settle a few questions for next time.

Our daughter feels that since Helena has grown up in great wealth, and is accustomed to having servants wait on her hand and foot, she should not have been expected to do any housework while she was a guest in our home.

Our own daughter pressed Helena's dresses and picked up after her. It annoyed me when Helena would gab on the phone by the hour while our daughter made both their beds and served her guest coffee — presumably to give her strength to hang on the phone for another hour.

We just put Helena on the plane and our daughter and I had a long discussion. She feels she was a perfect hostess and that I am wrong to criticize her for catering to the girl. We would like your opinion. — MMM

Dear MMM: The guest sounds thoroughly spoiled and ungracious. A lady does not make a servant out of her hostess.

Since your daughter cheerfully played handmaiden to her friend, however, I see no reason for you to criticize her. This was strictly between them. If YOU had been left with the extra work I'd have offered vastly different advice.

Dear Ann Landers: Maybe you or some of your readers can help me. I am a woman past 40, never married, and have kept myself busy and content with a multitude of interests.

About three years ago a close male relative for whom I've always had a great deal of affection and respect, started to keep company with a girl 20 years his junior. These two have been carrying on an immoral relationship and everyone in town knows it.

What I want to know is this: What is the correct way for me to think about this relationship? How do people deal with an ugly affair which reflects dishonor on the whole family? I need an answer. —LIBRA.

Dear Libra: You say you've kept yourself busy with a multitude of interests. Perhaps you have not kept yourself busy ENOUGH.

It's always sad when people we admire and respect disappoint us, but a mature individual does not allow himself to become unglued because others do not live up to his standards. One of the secrets of real contentment is to live and let live.

Gandhi Had a Word for It

Well we see by the local daily—as Stan Hudson used to remark — that the Citizens' Traffic Advisory committee is in a trading mood, kowtowing to the Missouri State Highway Department's insistence that if the latter permits a traffic light installation at 16th street and Limit avenue, then they want the speed limits increased to 35 miles in the 30 mile zones of South Limit (Highway 65) and Broadway (Highway 50). Will city council endorse the committee's recommendation?

We repeat what we said a month ago that the cold fact is there ought to be a traffic light at 16th street and Limit avenue based solely on a determination of its need, not as a compromise or barter factor with the highway department which wants urban speed limits raised. There's been some talk of raising the 40 mile zone limits to 45, also.

The Citizens' Traffic Advisory committee is not a group of experts on traffic matters. They concede this by a desire to ultimately have a traffic survey made by experts. But first the committee wants that light at 16th street and Limit avenue even if it has to make a trade deal now for increased speed limits which a later survey may determine is unjustified.

This committee has not met collectively to consider the speed limit matter and weigh its need or consequences. A meeting of only 4 of 10 members Wednesday produced approval of a document recommending to city council the establishment of speed increases. Absentees went along with the crowd. It's like politics, you know, give a little here, take a little there.

We hope that getting a traffic light at 16th street and Limit avenue doesn't develop into the morbid eventuation of taking a child's life here, an adult's life there by reason of faster traffic movement on Limit and Broadway.

We don't believe any garage, any ambulance service, any mortician, any hospital, any doctor wants increased business at the expense of increased speed limits in Sedalia.

Proponents of increased speed limits may point to opinion that the proposed speed won't make any difference in the accident rate in the areas mentioned. Others say Sedalia is a one-horse town with 30 and 40 mile zones; but a town with a live horse is better than one with a dead dobbin.

Perhaps we're too timorous about taking chances, but first let's have an expert traffic analysis relating to Sedalia speed zones rather than impetuously adopting an experiment which may have ghastly consequences.

Neither the Citizens' Traffic Advisory committee nor the State Highway department wants speed casualties despite the debatable courage of their current proposals.

As Mahatma Gandhi once said:

"There's more to life than increasing speed."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JFK Turns Cheek to Senate Opponents

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Some of JFK's friends are wondering just how long he will turn the other cheek to senators no matter how hard they slap him in the face. They also question the wisdom of this policy.

Even though the President instinctively is a charitable and kindly man, they feel that in the dog-eat-dog atmosphere of Congress, the policy of rewarding your enemies is not the way to get legislation through Congress.

Three case histories are cited as examples:

CASE NO. 1 is that of Sen. George Smathers, the handsome Florida Democrat, who held Congress in session one extra week last year, publicly flouting JFK, for the purpose of preventing a pocket veto of a special tax bill for professional men.

Kennedy not only took the public spanking without a murmur but turned around last spring and invited Smathers to join the Kennedy family on a yachting trip to celebrate the President's birthday. Smathers was the only senator invited on this exclusive family party, and the fact that JFK was rewarding a man who had publicly embarrassed him was not lost on other senators.

CASE NO. 2 occurred last June when the President took Sen. Dick Russell, the grave Georgia Democrat, on his private plane to the west coast to try to appease him on civil rights. Even the lowliest freshman senator knows that nothing on earth would change Russell on civil rights. Nevertheless, the President singled him out above loyal senators for special treatment, even though Russell has teamed up with Republicans to oppose some of the most vital parts of the Kennedy program.

Having added to Russell's prestige by taking him on the west coast trip, JFK is now in the embarrassing position of having the Georgia solon throw that prestige against the test ban treaty.

Unkindest Cut of All

CASE NO. 3 is that of Sen. John Stennis, the serious Mississippi Democrat, who has delivered the unkindest cut of all with his Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee report against the test ban treaty.

Not only did Stennis call a series of military witnesses certain to testify against the treaty, but he leaked part of his critical report to the press without making it clear that one of his committee, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., was opposed.

What the public doesn't know, but senators do know, is that the President and his brother had gone beyond the call of duty to appease and help the senator from Mississippi.

First, they made a special defense job for Stennis's friend, Fielding L. Wright, son of the former governor of Mississippi, giving him the jaw-breaking title of "deputy director to the assistant to the secretary of defense on legislative affairs." When this column questioned young Wright on the reasons why he was so frequently absent from his job, including a long trip to Mississippi, he stated that he had gone to Mississippi to help Bobby Kennedy regarding the Meredith incident at "Ole Miss." This the Justice Department emphatically denied.

The Kennedy administration has also been solicitous about pleasing Stennis on other appointments and once permitted the idea to circulate that Stennis was under consideration for the next vacancy on the Supreme Court. All this was to help build Stennis up for his prospective battle with Gov. Ross Barnett, segregationist hero of Ole Miss fame, who plans to run against Stennis.

But what the Kennedys did not know was, first, that Stennis would turn against JFK; second, that as a young district attorney he had a race record just as bad as Gov. Barnett's.

It was Stennis, who as a Mississippi district attorney in 1934, prosecuted three Negroes for murder on highly questionable evidence, later thrown out of court.

The three defendants, Ed Brown, Henry Shields, and Yank Ellington, were given the death sentence despite clearcut evidence that they were beaten unmercifully until they agreed to confess to a crime they swore they never committed. There were rope marks on Ellington's neck and the other two had visible signs of beatings. In fact, the deputy sheriff, Cliff Dial, who inflicted the beatings, admitted it in court.

"It was not as much as a nigger deserves," he testified.

Despite this and other testimony of beatings, the ambitious young district attorney pushed for a conviction and secured the death penalty.

When the conviction was reversed by the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Charles Evans castigated the district attorney (Stennis) for allowing gross injustice, and likened the tactics to those of the Inquisition.

However, Stennis immediately ran for a state judgeship, then went on to U.S. senator, where he is now biting the hand that tried to help him counter his potential rival, Ross Barnett.

Stennis is a hard-working, serious-minded solon hitherto not considered a rabble-rouser. Very quietly, however, he has helped knife some important Senate moves for more liberalization of foreign and military policy.

After the Bay of Pigs fiasco, there was a strong Senate demand for a probe of Central Intelligence and the manner in which it and the U.S. military had balled up this invasion. But the Senate armed services committee, on which Stennis sits as one of the most powerful members, vetoed the idea.

Last week, the same CIA was under attack for paying $3,000,000 a year to the Vietnamese "special forces," the same strong-arm group which had raided Buddhist pagodas.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Superintendent B. B. Ihrig, of the Smithton Public Schools, won the final rounds of the nation's inter-state chinker-check tournament by defeating C. M. Heffington, of Memphis, Tenn. The tournament was played at the McCleary Sanitarium at Excelsior Springs. One hundred entrants from 45 states participated. A certificate of title was given Supt. Ihrig national chinker check champion by Dr. A. S. McCleary, founder of the Sanitarium.

Veil Over US Action In Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, fed up with the developing chaos in South Viet Nam, has pulled a veil over American actions there. That the United States will act seems certain. He left the how clouded over.

But Kennedy's very vagueness at his news conference Thursday, or rather the way he chose to be vague, can be interpreted as ominous for the dictatorship of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The United States has pumped billions of dollars in aid into Viet Nam—plus troops—to fight the war against Communists, fearing that if Viet Nam is lost all Southeast Asia may be lost.

But Diem and his Roman Catholic family, in a country more than 70 per cent Buddhist, have turned the war into hash and brought the country to internal crisis by their repressions against Buddhists and students.

Some American actions, or pressures, or warnings may have already started.

The State Department has denied that this country's new ambassador to Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, has told Diem to throw out his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, head of the secret police. Nhu has acquired a sinister stature.

But strangely in the midst of all the domestic turmoil two other extremely important members of Diem's family have already left the country.

One, Nhu's arrogant wife, a storm center in the trouble with the Buddhists, has gone to Belgrade to attend an interparliamentary conference and will later go to New York.

The other, Diem's brother, Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, who is now in Paris, has been in New York after visiting Rome where his scheduled audience with Pope Paul VI was canceled.

The Pope has said he is profoundly disturbed by events in Viet Nam. Thuc said in New York the Vatican had ordered him to shut up on the situation in his country. In short, he was silenced.

Still left in Viet Nam with Diem are his brother, Nhu, and another brother, a powerful but seldom-mentioned figure, Ngo Dinh Can, who holds no official position but is boss of the central part of the country.

Both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations have handled Diem very gingerly because, so the reports in Washington go, he was strongly anti-Communist and it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find anyone to replace him.

It seems the Diem family traded on the American belief in their indispensability and ran both the war and the country with a high hand. The breaking point started with the conflict with the Buddhists last May, reaching a recent climax.

Thursday, several hours before Kennedy's news conference, 22 senators introduced a resolution to put Congress on record as favoring a halt to all aid to Diem unless he abandons his policies of "repression" and seeks popular support.

Then at his conference Kennedy said this country will support what helps the war against the Communists, oppose what hinders it. He added: "I do not think it advisable to state all our views at this time. I think they will be made more clear as time goes on."

Psoriasis Is a Stubborn Skin Condition to Cure

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.

Q — How long would I be justified in using an ointment in the treatment of psoriasis? I have used a recommended skin cream for two months and have noticed no improvement.

A — Your experience is not unusual. Although a great number of creams have been used to treat this disease, the response to them is uncertain at best. The fact that there are nearly 50 different creams for psoriasis in the market is proof that none of them are sure cures. If you don't notice any improvement after using an ointment for three or four weeks, you had better let your doctor prescribe another preparation.

Q — My doctor has me taking Librium and Elavil. What are they for? Can they do me any harm?

A — Your doctor is giving you these drugs for nervous tension. Chlordiazepoxide (Librium) in the dose usually given should not cause any side effects, but it should not be discontinued suddenly. When you no longer need this drug, you should gradually reduce the number of pills taken daily.

You should have your ocular tension checked twice a year while you are taking amitriptyline (Elavil), because in persons with a tendency to develop glaucoma it will aggravate this serious condition. You should also report any marked dimunition in the quantity of your urine to your doctor. In most persons, however, the small doses needed to control nervous tension are harmless.

Q — My doctor says I have proctitis. What causes it and how can it be cured? Will it eventually become malignant?

A — Proctitis is a rectal inflamation. If your proctitis is acute, it may be part of an ulcerative colitis, but in this case your doctor would have said so. It sometimes does become malignant.

Other causes of proctitis are chronic mucous colitis, frequent use of laxatives, and any other cause of chronic diarrhea.

With these conditions, there is little need for you to worry about cancer. When your doctor has determined the cause, he will prescribe appropriate treatment, but a cure is not always easy to achieve.

Q — Is it safe to take Hydrodiuril tablet continually to keep my weight down? Are there bad effects?

A — The drug you are taking (hydrochlorothiazide) belongs to the group popularly called "water pills." They allow water to be eliminated from the tissues in persons who have waterlogging due to liver disease or chronic incapacity of the heart. If your doctor is giving it to you to help your heart or your liver you can take it indefinitely.

Be sure to check with him from time to time to make sure you are on the proper dose and that you are not losing too much salt along with the water.

When taken under strict medical supervision there are no bad effects. The drug has a very limited use in reducing weight in persons who do not have heart or liver disease.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Landis Tax Case Brings Scrutiny of Enforcement

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—Echoes are still bouncing around on the 30-day imprisonment of former Harvard Law School dean James M. Landis for failure to file income tax returns for five years.

Tax experts recognize there is an important moral principle here, as well as a legal question.

The successful functioning of the American voluntary income tax assessment system is based on the assurance of people who do pay their taxes that those who evade payment are forced to pay up and given just punishment.

Landis's excuse for not filing returns from 1956 through 1960, when he had average income of over $70,000 a year, was that he was so busy with his clients' business he didn't have time to take care of his own. Also, it was brought out in court that he was under psychiatric treatment.

When formal charges were filed against the former high government official, he admitted guilt, paid up $94,000 in back taxes, penalty and interest due in full. So the government lost nothing in the long run.

In the light of this record, the question being discussed now is whether the sentence handed down by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan in New York district court was fully justifiable, too heavy or not heavy enough? And is it comparable to sentences handed down to others found guilty in similar cases?

Internal Revenue Service enforcement officials say frankly they don't know whether the Landis decision has any precedents or not. They don't keep their records that way. Neither does the Department of Justice, which does the prosecuting. Nor do the courts keep records nationally.

Every case of delinquency, fraud or other evasion of federal tax liability taken to court is tried before one of 400 district judges. Circumstances and amounts involved in each case vary and so do the judges who hear them. There is no uniformity in the decisions they hand down, except those imposed by the limits of the law.

In 1961 Department of Justice recommended the first judicial seminar in Boulder, Colo. The purpose was to get judges, in closed sessions, to come to some agreement among themselves on sentences they hand down in various types of cases.

IRS Commissioner Mortimer Caplin's report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962 — last one available—shows that 1.5 million tax delinquency investigations were conducted. Taxes, penalties and interest brought in from 935,000 of these probes totaled $165 million. But the average was only a little over $176 on each return.

Last year IRS had to handle about 350 million pieces of paper. It can't check this much business manually. On the 96 million returns filed, information indicating fraud, delinquency or other civil or criminal violation of the tax laws was obtained on about 125,000 cases.

The 125,000 cases were reduced to about 15,000 considered the most important. About 4,000 of these were then investigated in depth by the 1,750 special agents of the IRS Intelligence Service. Of the 4,000, only 1,200 were recommended for prosecution.

This situation is going to be completely changed when the IRS automatic data processing — ADP—is fully operational, in 1968. It will then be possible to check every return and catch every delinquent. This will make possible more uniformity in tax law enforcement.

The Mature Parent

Man, the Smartest Monkey

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a recent issue of Redbook magazine, anthropologist Margaret Mead calls for a "new ethic" which will persuade American parents to limit the number of their children. This to provide a responsible example to parents of other lands who seem bent on overpopulating this planet.

I wonder what effect such an appeal has. Do the people who need to listen really take in the scientists' warnings of an earth so overcrowded that there'll be hardly enough food or room for anyone?

I don't think they pay the slightest attention.

Scientists sometimes seem awfully romantic to me. They seem to think that all they have to do to evoke reason from somebody is to say, "Be reasonable."

It's never been easy for us to use reason — that creative capacity to draw conclusions from new facts. Human beings have never liked looking at facts.

If the people of Pompeii had wanted to look at the sinister red haze that hung over Mt. Vesuvius before it erupted, they would not have been buried under molten rivers of lava. If you looked at the auto accident statistics piled up on holiday weekends, you'd consider staying home over a holiday weekend. But you won't, will you? You'll be right out there clogging the highways, taking your chances just like the Pompeiians.

It's especially hard for us to be reasonable today. So many old certainties are dissolving around us that people with strong convictions about matters such as birth control or racial superiority can't bring themselves to let them go.

This is quite understandable. An unmoving, absolute conviction of the rightness of something is a wonderfully comforting possession. It's the lovely quiet seat in the eye of the hurricane. Though the winds of change rage around you, there one can sit, calm and unmoved, pretending there is no hurricane.

No, I don't think that the scientists make much impression with their threats of a jostled humanity in which men will be at each other's throat for means of survival. I think that the psychiatrists should be asked what can be done about the absolutists who sit in the eyes of our hurricanes refusing to look at new facts. They are not the problem of anthropologists like Miss Mead but of specialists in dealing with human anxiety.

We the Women

Men: This Is For You

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you want to make your wife feel she's the happiest girl in the world? Then ask her for a date on an evening that isn't her birthday or your wedding anniversary.

When she jumps at the chance (and she will), here are a few pointers on how to make the evening perfect from her point of view:

When you ask her for a date, say: "Never mind hunting around for a baby sitter. I'll line one up and bring her on my way home." You'd be surprised how gay and giddy that little bit of thoughtfulness will make her feel.

If you're ready before she is, don't hound her to hurry up. Let her take her time so that she'll feel glamorous instead of thrown together.

When she finally does appear, let out a low, long whistle. That's much safer than asking her: "Isn't that a new dress?" Much more flattering, too.

Whether you take her to an expensive restaurant or an inexpensive one depends on the state of your pocketbook. But give her your undivided attention during the dinner hour.

Don't kid the waitress. Don't complain because your food is slow in coming. Concentrate on the girl across the table from you who is all dressed up, and just for you.

Don't let yourself even once during the evening fret about how early you've got to get up next morning or what a hard day you've got ahead. Forget the office. Forget tomorrow.

You've got a date, you know, a date with a girl you once wanted more than any woman in the world. When the evening is over, you'll find you enjoyed it as much as she did.

Our Savior Begins Its New Church

Our Savior Lutheran Church held ground breaking ceremonies, Sunday, Sept. 8, for their $75,000 building program for the erection of their first house of worship.

Rev. Marvin Sackschewsky, pastor, preached on the topic, "Build with Living Stones," based on the text: 1 Peter 2, 1-10. The sermon brought out that a house of worship made with hands will fall. But individual Christians can use a house of worship to grow up into spiritual temples when they come to Christ, "the living stone," who is "the cornerstone" of the church.

The building site is located one mile west on U. S. 50, just east of the drive-in theater .

Patterson Brothers of Sedalia is the general contractor and Monroe and Lafebrve of Kansas City is the architect.

Members of the building committee are: William Bergmann, Secy., Marvin Boehne, Harvey Bohling, Leonard Knoernschild, and Paul Schroeder, chairman.

Other officers of the congregation are Carl Diefenderfer, President; William Bergman, Vice President; and Edwin Bruns, Secretary.

The congregation had its first worship service July 12, 1959, in Convention Hall. The worship services in Convention Hall were started by St. Paul's Lutheran Church as a mission outreach into west Sedalia. Rev. Walter Strickert, pastor of St. Paul's served the congregation from July to September. Rev. Carl Wolf, formerly of St. John's Lutheran served until December. Professors from St. Paul's College, Concordia, assisted during the month of January. On Feb. 7, 1960, Rev. Roland Lemke was commissioned by the Western District of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod to serve the congregation on a full time basis.

The congregation was formally organized on Pentecost Sunday, June 5, 1960, under the name of Our Savior Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. There were 160 charter members, 100 communicants, and 60 children.

Meet Marshall Owls

Tonight First Grid Test For Smith-Cotton Tigers

Tonight, the big test is on for the Smith-Cotton high school Tigers when they clash with the Marshall high school Owls. It is the opener for the 1963 football season at the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium. The kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

The most interested person in Sedalia, anxious to see the Tigers start play, is Coach Dick Rees. It is his first experience with the Tiger team under fire, and he knows little about other teams of the circuit, other than what has been told to him. Tonight's game is not only a test for the Tigers themselves but for Rees, who will have to make many decisions of the future play after this game.

On the other hand there are many football fans anxious to see the Tigers under the pressure of competition, wondering just what Coach Rees has produced with the material at hand. Those in the stands expect much from a coach. But they also must realize that the coach can't play the game. That's strictly the job of the boys on the field.

Coach Rees still was undecided early today as to who his captains on the field would be, although he did announce his starting lineup for the game.

In the backfield probable starters will be John Johnson, quarterback; Charles B. Rice, fullback; A. C. Byrd or Tom Gibbs at left halfback and Fred Wertz in right halfback position.

Those driving to the game tonight are requested to cooperate with the police on duty handling traffic. Early arrivals will be parked in the lot just north across Liberty Park Blvd., from the stadium. As soon as this area is filled, single parking along the boulevard on both sides of the street and then parking will be made on the lot beside the swimming pool, and just west of the baseball stadium.

Members of the Pettis County Post No. 16 Police Auxiliary will be on duty with local police in handling the traffic.

For those parking east of the stadium, an east gate is being opened to handle the crowd approaching the field from that section, resulting in the fact that fans will not have to walk all the way around to the front of the stadium to gain entrance. Inside the fence the fans can walk around the track to the stadium or across the gridiron, providing warm-up practice is not in session.

NO KICK COMING—Pittsburgh Steelers' Wayne Walker, right, isn't really kicking Joe Schmidt of the Lions in the face. The linebackers are scrambling for a ball fumbled on a pass at Tiger Stadium in Detroit.

Take Kansas City

Yanks Can Clinch AL Flag Tonight

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A middle-aged gentleman of Italian extraction, called Frankie by his intimates, just might have a bit of the bubbly tonight.

But that's no surprise. He's been sipping some with startling regularity since 1932. Not that he's a toper. It's just that it could be something of an occasion.

Frankie Crosetti, the New York Yankee third base coach, has been wearing Yankee pin stripes since 1932, either as a player or coach. In that time he's helped celebrate 21 pennant clinching parties with the traditional champagne.

If the Yanks clinch tonight, and they could, it will be his 22nd pennant winner, including seven as a player and 15 as a coach.

The Yankees took another long stride toward the 1963 pennant—their fourth in a row, 13 in 15 years and 28th over-all — with a 5-2 victory over Kansas City Thursday.

Minnesota edged Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings and Los Angeles blanked Boston 2-0 in the only other American League games scheduled.

The Yankee victory, which came behind Stan Williams, reduced their magic number to two, meaning any combination of Yankee victories and Minnesota defeats totalling two secures the flag for the Yanks.

They'll try to nail it down in Minnesota tonight in the first of a four-game series. Either right-hander Jim Bouton, who would be shooting for his 20th victory, or lefty Al Downing, 12-4, is expected to go for the pennant-clincher.

Crosetti, a player-coach in 1947 and 1948, waved home Yogi Berra, another player-coach with the Yanks' first run in the second inning, Berra scoring on a single by Hector Lopez.

Williams, who has won eight, allowed eight hits and walked six, but the A's left 13 men on base. Norm Siebern drove in both Kansas City runs with a single in the fifth.

Minnesota managed to retain mathematical life when Bob Allison hit a bases-loaded sacrifice fly with none out in the bottom of the tenth, breaking a 2-2 tie with Cleveland.

Earlier, Jimmy Hall hit his 32nd homer for the Twins, breaking Ted Williams' American League record for a rookie. The Indians tied it in the ninth on back-to-back homers by Max Alvis and Fred Whitfield.

In NL Playoff

St. Louis Wins, So Do Dodgers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

John Roseboro, nicknamed Gabby by his Los Angeles Dodger teammates because he speaks softly, rarely carries a big stick.

But he wielded one at Pittsburgh Thursday night, belting a grand slam homer and a run scoring single to produce all the runs in a 5-3 victory over the Pirates that maintained the Dodgers' three-game grip on the National League lead.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals won their sixth consecutive game and 15th in the last 16 by blending the pitching of Ernie Broglio and the slugging of Bill White and Stan Musial for an 8-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers have 16 games remaining, the Cardinals 14 — including a three-game series between the two clubs at St. Louis starting next Monday. Tonight, the Dodgers will be at Philadelphia for a twi-night doubleheader while Milwaukee invades St. Louis.

The Dodgers will be at a slight disadvantage, with Sandy Koufax forced to work against the Phillies with only two days rest so he can fit into the pitching rotation without having to work during next week's Jewish holidays.

In the only other NL games Thursday, San Francisco's Juan Marichal four-hit the New York Mets 6-0, and Philadelphia defeated Houston 4-1.

Roseboro, 30, a left-handed swinging catcher, is hitting only .245 with nine homers and 48 runs batted in. But he supplied the power early against the Pirates, slamming his grand slam off Bob Friend, 16-15, in the first inning.

The Pirates could manage only four hits off Johnny Podres, 13-10, through seven innings. When they started to connect in the eighth, Ron Perranoski preserved the victory in his 61st relief appearance.

White hit a two-run homer, drove in a third run with a bases-loaded walk and also collected a single, Musial rapped singles his first two times up, against Larry Jackson, 14-15, and scored the game's first run. Dick Groat contributed a single, double and sacrifice fly to the attack.

Broglio brought his record to 16-8 with an eight-hitter, but missed an opportunity to provide the Cardinal staff with its fourth straight shutout. Doubles by Ellis Burton and Ken Hubbs in the seventh inning snapped a string of 36 scoreless innings by St. Louis pitchers, then John Boccabella and Jim Schaffer homered in the ninth for the Cubs.

Marichal, who hit his first major league homer, also got home run support from Felipe Alou and Ed Bailey. Marichal brought his record to 22-8 with the victory and struck out 13 Mets.

Ray Culp, 13-11, set the Colts down on five hits while Roy Sievers and Tony Taylor hit homers for the Phillies.

Meadow Skipper Wins

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Meadow Skipper, the colt who was expected to beat Overtrick if such a thing was possible in the $163,187 Cane Futurity, did just that Thursday night.

A crowd of 24,066 fans at Yonkers Raceway watched two of the fastest pacers in history battle it out in the one mile Futurity, second richest harness race. It was a near world record performance for 3-year-old pacers.

The winner paid $8.70 for $2 and took down first prize of $89,753.

Meadow Skipper was clocked in 1:58 4-5, compared with the world mark of 1:58 3-5 for 3 year old pacers on a one-half mile oval set by Bullet Hanover and Muncy Hanover in heats of the 1960 Little Brown Jug.

Horseshoe Results

Results of the horseshoe pitching tournament Thursday night at Washington Park were:

Winston, 11-0; Beard, 9-2; Harlan, 9-2; McNeal, 8-3; T. Todd, 6-5; Brownfield, 5-6; E. Todd, 5-6; N. Todd, 5-6; Stumpf, 4-7; F. Todd, 2-9; R. Evans, 2-9; J. King, 0-11.

Horseshoe pitching will continue each Thursday night as long as weather permits, it was announced.

Seems that everybody wants to drive our station wagon.
Why? Is it the three 5-foot seats?
They hold the regular driver plus 9 junior drivers.
Or 7 more adults.
Is it because the back seats are removable? Or because the side doors open 4 feet wide?
Slide a seat out and you can slide in a made-up crib.
Take both seats out and you've got room for a full-length bed.
Is it because the Volkswagen, with more usable space than the biggest conventional wagon, is a good 4 feet shorter?
It fits neatly into parking spots the big boys have to pass by.
Is it the legendary Volkswagen mileage? The rear-engine traction?
Is it the sunroof?
It's also a moonroof.
A rainroof, too. When the sky looks threatening, just slide the roof shut. It's windproof. Waterproof.
Is it the 21 windows to look out of?
Your guess is as good as ours.
Why not come in and see why. For yourself.

Businessmen Brace for Rise In West Europe Barriers

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. businessmen are bracing for rising barriers on their trade with Western Europe. A year ago they were hoping for lower obstacles to trade.

The chicken war is only a small part of the trouble ahead. It arises because the European Common Market raised the duty on American poultry. When the United States said it would retaliate, the Common Market backed down so slightly that Washington was unimpressed.

But American financial and business circles say that the very nature of European tariff policies is spelling problems for American exporters no matter how the chicken war turns out.

The six Common Market nations — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg — are forging a no-tariff rule for themselves and a common tariff schedule on all outside goods.

The same is true of the Outer Seven—Britain, Switzerland, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Portugal.

This in itself will have each of the six or the seven a better chance at each other's markets than any one outside the rival trade blocs.

Until now the growing economy of Europe has absorbed a lot of American goods and materials, regardless of tariffs and other barriers. Now the market is growing really competitive.

"From now on the adverse effects of the European trade blocs on our exports are likely to be much more important," economists of the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, assert.

"The degree of discrimination against exports from outside the Common Market will increase rapidly in the period ahead. The common external tariff wall now appears to be considerably more protective than the old national tariffs."

In a study of European trade policies, the bank economists predict that there will still be a sizable demand for American products. But they say that under the proposed rates in the common tariff the rise in U.S. exports to this important market may be slowed substantially.

In addition to tariffs the Common Market countries levy additional taxes on outside products. They are variously called turnover taxes, equalization taxes and surtaxes and range from 2 per cent to 25 per cent, imposed on the duty-added value of the imported goods.

Urgent Notes To Kennedy On Viet Nam

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy evidently is receiving strong warnings from U.S. officials in Viet Nam that the anti-Communist war there may be lost unless the Diem government institutes sweeping reforms.

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday that in publicly criticizing the policies of the Vietnamese government during the last two weeks he has actually understated the concern expressed to him by the most experienced American military, diplomatic, aid and other officials in the crisis-ridden Southeast Asian country.

He also said that his own comments about the situation there reflect the views of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge "in a very moderate way."

Lodge has started a series of conversations with Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem on changes which the United States would like to see made. Though there has been controversy about the exact line he has taken on a personnel shakeup, there seems to be no doubt whatever that he has made clear to Diem that the United States would welcome the departure of Diem's brother and chief adviser, Ngo Dinh Nhu.

U.S. leaders consider that Nhu and his outspoken wife are responsible for much of the dissatisfaction which the Vietnamese people are reported to feel with the Diem government.

Kennedy's remarks Thursday constituted a reply in part to criticisms of his Vietnamese policies which Mrs. Nhu has stated during the past two weeks. Thursday in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, she told reporters once more that the President was "misinformed about the situation in Viet Nam."

Kennedy was not asked a question which referred to her personally but he was asked what he thought about the charge he was poorly informed. His answer was that he was operating "on the basis of really the unanimous views and opinions expressed by the most experienced Americans there."

Lodge talked with Diem last Monday and is understood to have made explicitly clear that the United States considers that Nhu is the major focal point of the country's political crisis.

So far as can be determined here, Lodge got no encouragement from Diem on the question of removing Nhu from the position of power which he now holds. Kennedy emphasized as he has on several recent occasions that he does not favor withdrawing U.S. military assistance from Viet Nam because this country's policy, he said, is to win the struggle against the Communist guerrillas.

The President defined American policy in these words: "We want the war to be won, the Communists to be contained and the Americans to go home."

And in adding "I am sure it is the policy of the people of Viet Nam," he made a careful distinction in referring to the people —not the government of Viet Nam.

He said that "25,000 Americans have traveled 10,000 miles" to participate in the struggle."

Hollywood Shakes Sense Of Values, Writer Says

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I hate paternalism," said author Irving Wallace, whose books now sell like sardines in Norway.

"I don't want any big daddies around me.

"If you own 51 per cent of yourself, you've got a good deal—and you can be happy. But if you own only 5 per cent of yourself, you're in bad shape."

Back in 195—, his friends felt Irving was set for life. Beginning with a $5 sale to a turf periodical at the age of 15, he had turned out 500 magazine articles and short stories.

Fifteen of his movie scripts had been produced and he was on the payroll at $1,000 a week as a screen writer.

"But the money wasn't doing me any good, although it seemed awesome at the time," Wallace recalled, "It just brought me more drinks or a more expensive suit.

"Hollywood shakes your sense of values. And I felt like somebody was holding my arm whenever I wrote.

"I was tired of being treated like a mechanic or a literary carpenter. I was tired of writing scripts and magazine articles. I wanted to write books so I'd be free to say what I wanted to say."

So Wallace decided to turn his back on $50,000 a year and take up novel writing, a field in which the average practitioner earns about the same as a charwoman —but has fewer fringe benefits.

"That was my moment of truth," he said. "But I shook all the way to my typewriter."

Using the same second-hand rebuilt typewriter which his parents gave him on his 13th birthday, Wallace has turned out four novels and two biographies since 1958.

All have been sold to the movies, but he really hit the jackpot with "The Chapman Report" and "The Prize." His latest novel, "The Three Sirens," was picked in advance of publication as a book club selection and auctioned to the films for $300,000.

Financially now in the millionaire class, Wallace has found his social standing in Hollywood has risen remarkably, too.

"As a screen writer you defer to stars and producers and rarely go to their parties," he said drily. "But as a novelist, I find that has all changed.

"They not only respect you. They treat you as an equal, and are anxious to meet you."

Residual Pay For Actors In Big Jump

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's summer viewers may not have been wildly amused by the re-run season but a lot of actors profited.

Statistics for July, released by the Screen Actors Guild, show that residual payments to performers for re-runs were close to a million dollars, almost half again as much as they were the previous year.

Part of the 42 per cent increase resulted from a boost in the $90 minimum re-run payment to $100 per show for performers. Perhaps more important is the fact that last season, re-runs started earlier than ever —some even in April. There were more repeats, hence more money.

Financial boons though the re-treads may be to sponsors, producers and performers, there is some evidence that viewers protest in their own quiet way — by not watching.

The most recent Nielsen ratings show that CBS' "What's My Line," a vintage panel show that has always resisted re-runs, leaped into the number three position on the popularity poll. And CBS' "Vacation Playhouse," a collection of unsold comedy pilot films, and pretty dreary ones at that, was ninth.

During the next three weeks, new programs and old programs with new material will be launched so fast and furiously that no individual viewer can sample them all.

The action starts tonight.

"International Showtime" resumes on NBC (7:30-8:30 p. m. Eastern Daylight Time), with acts from the Munich Circus. First premiere of the season will be "Harry's Girl's," also on NBC at 9:30.

"The Lieutenant," another NBC series, bows in Saturday night (7:30-8:30), followed with the first program of Joey Bishop's new season.

ABC will present three new series Sunday evening, from 7:30 to 10:30. They start with "The Travel of Jaimie McPheeters," an hour-long adventure series, followed by "Arrest and Trial," a 90-minute action show that starts with a man-hunt and ends in a courtroom. Finally, there's the debut of "100 Grand," the big-money show which is alleged to be positively, absolutely rig-proof.

There's also NBC's "Grindl," starring Imogene Coca, at 8:30, and the first new show of NBC's "Show of the Week" season, "The Last Hangman," starring Ed Begley.

Halt Demonstrations In North Carolina

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—Negro leaders have agreed to suspend mass demonstrations and most picketing in exchange for a pledge of firmer action on their desegregation demands which have resulted in racial violence and mass arrests.

However, Mayor Floyd Mehan and the Rev. B. Elton Cox, a field representative for the Congress of Racial Equality, disagreed publicly on some provisions of the truce reached Thursday.

The agreement calls for appointment of a permanent human relations commission to work toward a solution of the segregation problem. Mehan said the commission is to be established within 90 days, with a full report of progress to be made at that time.

The truce temporarily eased racial tension.

Prior to each sermon a laymen will give a brief explanation of next year's program. K. P. McCrary will speak at the first service and Paul Edwards at the second service.

Solemn Days Approaching For Jewish

The most solemn period of the Jewish calendar, the High Holy Days, begins at sundown Wednesday, Sept. 18, with the observance of Rosh Ha-shono. Jewish families of this community, like Jewish families all over the world, will gather at Temple Beth El where the special religious services will be conducted at 8 p.m. by Abe Rosenthal. At 10 a.m. on Thursday another service will be held at the Temple.

At the religious services, the Shofar (ram's horn) will be sounded as a call to conscience for the individual worshiper to reflect on his past deeds and think ahead to the coming year, for Rosh Hashono ushers in the new Jewish year of 5724.

According to tradition, man's fate is written in the Book of Life on Rosh Ha-shono and is sealed on the final day of the ten-day period of penitence, Yom Kippur, the Day of Attonement, which begins this year at sundown, Friday, Sept. 27.

Although no special home ritual accompanies the Holy Day of Rosh Ha-shono, it is, nevertheless a very important time for members of the family to gather together at dinner preceding the journey to the synagogue or temple. The meal may begin with passing around a bowl of honey into which members of the family dip a piece of bread or apple to denote symbolically a wish for a sweet new year. This custom is especialiy meaningful for the younger members.

The most important period for the individual is his self-appraisal on which he reflects during the service and at home.

Is this the reason most engines still aren't in back?

Horseless carriages weren't called horseless carriages for nothing.

Gas engines may have taken the place of the horse.

But the horse left its mark.

Early cars kept their whip sockets, long after there were no horses to whip.

Dashboards once kept the horse from splashing mud on the passengers.

And most cars have kept their engines up front, where the horse used to be.

When the Volkswagen was designed, it was assumed that horses would never be back.

So VW felt free to put the engine over the rear wheels, the ones that drive the car.

That way, you don't spin your wheels getting power from the front to the back.

Or horse around with heavy driveshafts.

You also get more weight over the drive wheels for firm traction when the going gets sloppy.

Actually, the VW's air-cooled aluminum engine would have been a sensation, even in front.

But the big idea was moving it to the rear.

It was a great step backward in the world of automobile design.

Police, Pupils Fight

2 Near-Riots In House Caucus Room

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bearded youth, shrieking girls and college students clashed with husky police Thursday in two near-riots as a House subcommittee began an investigation of some young Americans' trip to Cuba.

One fist-swinging clash came when police moved to eject noisy students from the House caucus room after they interrupted the hearing with a burst of applause for Levi Laub, a leader of the 59-member U.S. delegation that went to Cuba in defiance of a State Department travel ban.

The other broke out moments after the end of the hearing, conducted by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Trouble had been brewing all day. Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., told the House Wednesday his committee had information a demonstration was planned.

Barry Hoffman, 26, a Boston businessman who made the trip as an undercover agent, testified the young persons went to Cuba mostly to try to break the travel ban.

Young persons in the audience burst into applause twice during his testimony.

When Laub refused to tell the subcommittee anything about other leaders of the Cuban travel movement his supporters applauded the loudest.

Willis told Capitol police to eject the demonstrators.

A scuffle broke out when police seized a denim-clad youth with a bushy beard, and a handful of other demonstrators.

Suddenly, 20 Washington policemen joined Capitol police.

Boycott Affective

Only Negroes In One School

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A massive boycott of newly integrated classrooms gained momentum Thursday in Alabama and left one high school with only Negro pupils.

Hundreds of screaming, flag-waving teen-agers roamed from school to school in Birmingham, trying to stir up sympathy walkouts from classes still segregated. They gained some followers at two schools, but failed at others.

One white man was arrested after pulling a knife on policemen trying to break up a crowd at Banks High in Birmingham.

White pupils numbering an estimated 300 refused to attend class at Mobile's Murphy High in the first mass protest against integration there. Nearly 50 pupils were arrested in an hour-long demonstration near the campus. The others returned to class.

All 270 of the white boys and girls previously registered at Tuskegee High School stayed away, and only the 13 Negroes enrolled there by federal court order went to class.

Some of the whites walked into the building to get their books, but quickly left, said principal E. W. Wadsworth.

At the adjoining Tuskegee Elementary School there was no organized walkout. All of the Negroes are enrolled in the high school grades.

A yelling crowd of whites—most of them from integrated West End High, where attendance for the third day in a row was more than 1,000 below normal—drove from one still-segregated school to another in Birmingham, demanding that boys and girls there join the boycott.

At the other two desegregated schools—Ramsay High and Graymont Elementary—attendance remained about the same as Wednesday, still below normal. Police kept the demonstrators away from the three desegregated schools.

At Woodlawn, helmeted officers began confiscating Confederate banners and forced students to disembark from overloaded cars. Some teen-age motorists were given traffic tickets.

Earlier in the day, a gray-haired teacher single-handedly broke up a potential demonstration among Phillips pupils. She walked into a crowd of some 60 boys and girls, snatched placards and marched the crowd back inside.

The roving crowd of classroom boycotters encountered stern opposition from school leaders at Woodlawn and warnings of "Go away. We don't want any trouble here."

Despite the mounting tension, the 24 Negroes, whose presence at schools in four Alabama cities broke the high school-elementary school racial barriers for the first time, were still in class.

Nets Whopping Fine

CAMDENDON, Mo. (AP) — Leland Jones, 47, of Climax Springs, Mo., was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail Wednesday for using an illegal gill net in the Lake of the Ozarks, the state Conservation Commission reported today.

Jones was spotted in Rainy Creek Cove checking the 300-foot net. Agents recovered the net which contained about 150 pounds of catfish and carp but Jones slipped away.

After a 12-hour search he was found by agents Loward Sparks and Ed Webb under some lumber in the basement of a vacant summer cottage.

Open Bids On Levee Projects

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Army Engineers opened bids Thursday on a major levee project on the Missouri River and for the first work on the $51 million Stockton Dam in Western Missouri.

Joseph S. Pohl of Nevada, Mo. with a bid of $1,774,877, was the apparent low bidder on a 16½-mile levee unit on the right bank of the Missouri River near Atherton, Mo. There were four other bidders on the project, designed to protect 8,000 acres. The government estimate on the job was $1,670,519.

David M. Sisher, Maryville, Mo. was the apparent low bidder for the initial work at the Stockton dam site on the Sac River, two miles east of Stockton. He bid $97,295 on the project to erect administrative facilities, storage unit, water well, parking area, walks and utilities. The government estimate was $129,554. There were four other bidders, the highest being $142,089. All the work most be completed in 360 calendar days.

The Metro Construction Co. Kansas City, Kan., was the apparent low bidder for one of the final projects on the nearly completed Pomona dam and reservoir, seven miles northesst of Lyndon, Kan., operator's facilities, utilities and landscaping. The apparent low was $49,600, compared with a government estimate of $57,480. The contractor will have 220 calender days to complete the work.

150 Southern Cities Get Praise From President For Integration

Holds News Conference Devoted To Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy poured praise Thursday on 150 Southern cities which, he said, have integrated schools in the past two weeks with "courage and responsibility."

At a news conference devoted largely to civil rights, the President also predicted that the American people will not make the "fatal mistake" of splitting along racial lines when they go to the ballot box.

Aside from civil rights, the prime topic at the news conference was the nuclear test ban treaty, and Kennedy pleaded for a thumping ratification by the Senate.

The Senate, he said, will enable "all of us who inhabit this earth, our children and children's children, to breathe easier." If it gets only grudging support, he said, then this nation "cannot offer leadership or hope for the future."

Not once during his lengthy remarks on school desegregation did the President mention Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, whose attempts to keep schools segregated in Birmingham, Mobile and Tusekegee were thwarted this week when Kennedy took from the governor control of the Alabama National Guard.

Instead, Kennedy emphasized what he called the "impressive story," the step-by-step desegregation in the South. He emphasized that "most of the work has really been done by Southerners themselves."

In the 150 cities, he said, the task was not easy. Nevertheless, he said, what finally prevailed was not emotion but respect for law.

A reporter remarked that a Negro leader has called Kennedy greater than Abraham Lincoln, and that a poll shows 95 per cent of Negroes probably will vote for Kennedy next year.

The newsman then asked a question which implied that many white Northerners, formerly potential Kennedyites, might swing away from him because of the civil rights furor.

"I understand what you mean," the President said. "That there is a danger of a division in the party, in the country, upon racial grounds. I would doubt that. I think the American people have been through too much to make that fatal mistake. It is true that a majority of the Negroes have been Democrats, but that has been true since Franklin Roosevelt. Before that a majority of them were Republicans. The Republican party, I am confident, could get the support of the Negroes, but I think they have to recognize the very difficult problems the Negroes face."

Establish Four New Committees

"The Sedalia Bi-Racial Committee has established four sub-committees to begin a program of research and education," according to the Rev. William E. Lusk, chairman of the local group.

Lusk, who made the statement at an informal meeting of the committee with Peter C. Robertson, executive director of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, said the group wanted to learn just what the factual situation is in Sedalia.

The four sub-committees and their chairmen are: Speakers Committee, Jim Reed; Public Accomodations Committee, Herbert Jones; Recreational Facilities Committee, Mayor L. L. Studer.

Lusk explained that the committee felt research was necessary "before taking any action." He said the Speakers Committee was organized because it was felt "that community education is one of the most important ways to advance equal rights."

Robertson told the local group, which met at the home of Jim Reed, about the activities of local commissions in other state communities and said that he was "very impressed with the progress being made in Sedalia.

Pick Jury For Trial Of Airman

Selection Begins At Boonville In Southwick Death

The trial of William J. Dwyer, 21, Whiteman AFB, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of a five-year-old girl in Sedalia Oct. 15, began in Boonville Thursday morning with the selection of a jury.

The trial was taken to Boonville on a change of venue from Pettis County. The proceedings were scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., but were delayed about one hour while the defense attorney, Will Berry of Versailles, submitted a motion to quash the original information on the grounds that a recorder was not present at the preliminary hearing.

Judge Frank Hayes overruled the motion and the selection of the jury began about 10 a. m.

The proceedings progressed slowly as Berry questioned each prospective juror closely. At the noon recess Berry had already requested four of the panel be excused.

A panel of 28 prospective jurors was prepared, but some did not show up for the trial and with those excused there remained 23 at the noon recess. Selection of a jury was completed shortly after noon.

The proceedings opened with James Conway, prosecuting attorney for Cooper County, presenting a brief of the case to the prospective jury panel. Conway is assisting Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz in the presentation of the state's case against Dwyer.

Dwyer is charged in connection with a two-car collision at 14th and Carr early Oct. 15, 1962, in which Lynn Renee Southwick, five-year-old daughter of Highway Patrol Trooper and Mrs. William T. Southwick, was fatally injured.

Among those to testify were Sedalia Police Sgt. Charles Stuart, who was driving a police patrol car in pursuit of the Dwyer auto just prior to the accident; Officer Albert Blankenship, also of the Sedalia force and A2c George Allen Volk a passenger in the car driven by Dwyer.

Other witnesses are scheduled to be heard today, after the trial resumes at 9 a. m.

Denounces Guerrillas

Claims South Viet Nam Is Building Democracy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu defied what she called an "international campaign of blackmail and terror" aimed at South Viet Nam. In spite of this campaign, she declared, her country is building democracy.

She denounced the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas for waging a "most virulent, subversive war" and claimed there had been no oppression of Buddhists by the government of her brother-in-law, President Ngo Dinh Diem.

"Influences from East and West infiltrated the Buddhist movement to deviate it to ideologies contrary to Buddhism itself," she said.

"Viet Nam," she toll delegates to the 61-nation interparliamentary union, "is erecting a democratic regime in spite of war, with war and against war."

Delegates gave her a thunderous ovation at the end of her 10-minute speech, delivered Thursday in a torrent of French so rapid it was difficult to follow her.

Mrs. Nhu did not mention the United States, although earlier she had told newsmen South Viet Nam's troubles were the result of a plot against Diem's government and President Kennedy. She did not go into detail.

Black eyes flashing, she said from the podium that it was the determination of the people to be Vietnamesee only which had made them "the target at which are aimed from all directions the most powerful, cruel, unjust and cunning attacks."

"Like the Yugoslav people, the Vietnamese do not retreat before this international campaign of blackmail and terror and will fight to safeguard their right to live according to the way they have chosen," she said.

Gesturing emphatically, Mrs Nhu praised the strategic hamlet policy which her husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, brother of president Diem, directs.

The policy, she said, "although still in its infancy, has already produced encouraging results, but it has begun to encounter new obstacles."

"The so-called Buddhist affair has been exploited basically by a counterrevolutionary reaction. The Buddhists were not victims of any kind of oppression, rather they were victims of their developments beyond their possibilities," she said.

"Influences from East and West infiltrated the movement in order to deviate it to ideologies contrary to Buddhism itself."

Mrs. Nhu is a convert from Buddhism to Roman Catholicism.

Earlier she had told newsmen the world press was unfair to her and to her country because of a plot "of only six men in Saigon" whom she refused to identify.

"Absolutely horrible," was how she described press coverage.

"If you keep screaming like that, the situation which has never been desperate might become so," she told newsmen.

"I am a good girl," she exploded. "I do not know why the press is so horrible to me."

To Expand Welfare Program

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri's intensive welfare program at the Pruitt-Igoe public housing complex in St. Louis has been so successful it will be continued on a permanent basis and will be expanded to other public housing areas.

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter said Thursday a similar intensive program will be established at the Carr, Square, Vaughn, Cochran housing area immediately and at the Darst, Webbe, Clinton-Peabody area later on. All are in St. Louis.

Carter said the Pruitt-Igoe area was chosen as a national pilot program because it contained some 950 aid to dependent children families and 600 other welfare cases.

During the first year of the program, which started in April last year, 54 of the ADC families were dropped from the rolls because their situations had been improved enough so they were financially self sufficient.

Key to the intensive program was the reduction of the caseload for each welfare worker from the usual 120-up to about 50. That gave each worker more time to work out the problems of individual families, building up their pride, their job training and their desire to be self-reliant.

The program brought families back together again, reduced school dropouts, solved financial and work problems and helped reduce illegitimacy, Carter said.

The housing project is occupied primarily by Negroes.

"We feel that by giving intensive services to the families on assistance rolls," Carter said, "we can go far toward breaking the pattern of family dependency, which has continued in many cases from generation to generation."

The caseworkers themselves produced the report after a year of experience. Some of their individual reports indicated great success in patching up homes, instilling personal pride in surroundings and in desire to be self sustaining and in promoting the wish to be better educated.

Flags to Half Staff

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—State and national flags were flown at half staff on state buildings Thursday, marking the second anniversary of the death of former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

Donnelly, the only man in Missouri to serve two full four-year terms as governor, was buried in the cemetery of his hometown, Lebanon.

Efforts are now being made to raise a fund to erect a memorial to him on the steps of the Laclede County courthouse where he practiced law for many years.

Traffic Panel Recommends Speed Hike

4 Stop Lights Also Get Nod By Citizens Group

A 5-mile speed limit increase on Broadway and 65 Highway was unanimously approved for recommendation to Sedalia's City Council by the traffic advisory committee Wednesday night. The group, headed by W. A. Smith, met in the office of Mayor L. L. Studer.

Pending approval by the council, instituting the speed limit could make it possible for the State Highway Department to install a traffic light at the congested 16th and Limit intersection. The department asked the speed limit hike as a pre-requisite for the traffic light.

Recommendation will also be taken to the council by the committee for installation of 12-inch red stop lights at four locations; Broadway and Sngineer; Broadway and Massachusetts; Broadway and Grand; Broadway and Ohio.

Next week's traffic committee agenda includes, for discussion, east side-only parking on Lamine from Eighth to Tenth Streets, because of that thoroughfare's narrowness.

Present, besides Smith, at the meeting were Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin, Fire Chief Emmet Vaught, Damon Hieronymus, Pinkney Miller, all committee members.

Bob Cunningham, city engineer, W. D. Hill, both committee members, and Mayor L. L. Studer, were unable to attend but indicated they were in favor of the recommendation for increasing the speed limit, according to Chairman Smith.

Army Cuts Its Forces In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has quietly reduced its forces in Europe by another 7,300 men since the first of the year, it was disclosed Thursday.

That brings to about 22,300 the number of men returned to the United States in little more than a year.

The Army has passed the halfway mark in a gradual reduction of the 40,000-man buildup rushed into effect nearly two years ago, at the height of the Berlin Crisis.

The men returned so far are largely support types — quartermaster, signal, ordnance.

A slight combat-unit reduction is expected before the end of the year when an armored cavalry regiment of about 3,000 to 4,000 men is expected back from Germany.

The most recent troop reductions have been made without announcement. It appeared likely the Defense Department may have hoped to accomplish the scaling-down process with as little notice as possible to avoid disturbing the nations which might regard it as a weakening of American resolve to defend Europe.

U. S. airlift capability has improved to the extent that the United States is planning a dramatic movement of a full Army division to Europe next month for an exercise which should reassure the Europeans.

Kennedy Gives Talk

Ratification For Treaty Is Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy declared Thursday that failure of the Senate to ratify the limited nuclear test ban treaty "would be the green light for intensive atmospheric testing by a number of countries."

"You couldn't possibly stop it," he said. "This would be the end of an effort of 15 years. I don't think the United States would want to take on that responsibility."

The President, his voice rising sternly, commented thus at his news conference after making other pleas for the pact and expressing confidence that the Senate will vote its endorsement overwhelmingly.

"If we are to give it now only grudging support, if this small, clearly beneficial step cannot be approved by the widest possible margin in the Senate, then the nation cannot offer much leadership or hope for the future," he said.

But as Kennedy spoke, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told the Senate that even approval of his Cuban reservation would not make the pact "one ounce more acceptable to me."

Goldwater, conceding that the Senate would ratify the agreement, plans to offer a reservation that would postpone effectiveness of the Senate's resolution of ratification until Russia removes all nuclear weapons and military forces from Cuba and permits on-site inspection for verification.

Another avowed opponent of the treaty, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., proposed that the Senate spell out its right to pass on any amendments to the pact to limit nuclear testing to underground.

But Russell ran into an argument from Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright said Russell's proposal would weaken rather than strengthen the Senate's constitutional right to advise and consent to treaties.

US Wants Victory

Kennedy Reaffirms Foreign Aid Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reaffirmed Thursday his policy of continuing U.S. aid to South Viet Nam because "We want the war to be won, the Communist to be contained and the Americans to go home."

At the same time, Kennedy reacted gently to a new Senate resolution to chop off all U.S. assistance if the Saigon government does not abandon "policies of redoes not abandon "policies of repression" against its critics.

The troubled Vietnamese situation came up repeatedly at a presidential news conference but Kennedy declined to detail future U.S. steps beyond outlining what he termel "a very simple policy."

"We are for those things and those policies which help win the war there," he said. "That is why some 25,000 Americans have traveled 10,000 miles to participate in that struggle.

"What helps to win the war we support. What interferes with the war effort we oppose."

Kennedy refused to be drawn into further criticism of the anti-Buddhist crackdown by Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem or engage in sharp debate with Diem's family members like the sharp-tongued Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu who are blasting Washington policy.

Criticism of the Diem regimes' methods was behind the aid cut-off resolution introduced Thursday by Sen. Frenk Church, D-Idaho.

Kennedy sail, "We should stay there and continue to assist South Viet Nam, but I also indicated our feeling that the assistance we give should be used in the most effective way possible. I think that seems to be Sen. Church's view."

Administration sources said Kennedy's reference to 25,000 in Viet Nam was a cumulative total of U.S. military personnel sent there since the expanded effort began in 1961. The current figure was listed at about 14,000.

While Church's resolution would not bind the executive branch, it could spark legislation which could force a cutback in the foreign aid bill under Senate consideration.

High Price of Weeds

Diverting city employes to jobs of cutting weeds on vacant lots is a service that Sedalia may well dispense with. As Mayor L. L. Studer remarked at council meeting, the city is not in the weed-cutting business and dosen't want to be.

Taxpayers who keep weeds cut on their premises will find no fault with council's ordinance amendment to double the one mill cost per square foot against those who do not keep their lots cut.

Admittedly, weeds are a nuisance. Also a nuisance is the effort to hire someone to cut them several times a year in the summer months especially if this has to be arranged by absentee owners of property.

Nevertheless weeds must be cut. The rank growth is not only unsightly but also unsanitary. In those cases in which it devolves upon the city to do the mowing, the charge against obstinate property owners certainly should be high enough to pay the freight and inconvenience to the city.

In other cases of simple neglect, the charge should be high enough to prod the property owner to shake a leg on his own behalf and hire someone to do the job. He'll do it, too, if he figures he'll have to pay out approximately $100 a season for five cuttings at $20 per cut.

Neighbors to rank weed growth areas are hopeful city council's most recent efforts to solve the problem will put some zip into the private citizen's responsibility to keep his property mowed and remove the burden from city departments which have plenty of other activity to keep them busy.

Sedalia's weed-cutting problem is almost as enigmatic as the perennial dog dilemma.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Pettis County Democratic Women's club elected the following delegates to the state convention in Jefferson City: Mrs. Henry Dickman, Mrs. R. Phelan, Miss Jean Slack and Mrs. Hattie Olmstead; alternates, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs. Herman Myers, Mrs. Earl Evans, Mrs. Dimple Thompson and Mrs. Frank Monroe.

FORTY YEARS AGO

At a called meeting of the executive board of the Boy Scouts, Harold F. Pote, Pettis County Scout executive, tendered his resignation. He has been commissioned as Deputy Regional Executive of Region Eight with headquarters in Omaha, Neb. The board chose as his successor, H. M. Littleton, of Kansas City, where he was director of the Boys Club. He recently completed the Scout Executive's special training course at Macon, Georgia.

Thank You Letters

Writing thank you letters is a torture and an imposed duty for many persons who have enjoyed the hospitality of a friend or relative. Yet they are a necessary courteous expression.

Thousands of children are forced to write thank you letters by their mothers or grandmothers after a summer vacation. They literally suffer as they take pen in hand to write a few sentences, no matter how sincere they feel about having had a good time.

It is difficult for many to express their thoughts in writing. It is almost a punishment for children. Their thoughts wander, they can't spell the words and they would rather be doing something else, but they know that the sword of Damocles hangs over them until the letters are written and in the mail.

That is as it should be. Even little boys and girls must learn that saying thank you, even if they have to write it, is a courteous social requirement.

Guest Editorial

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER: Now It's Oatmeal on the Rocks.—Although we as a nation admire technological progress, there are times when the advance of science must be viewed with considerable trepidation.

A chilling prospect indeed is the report that a frozen breakfast, complete with disposable tray, is being added to the now glutted TV dinner line.

The benefits of convenience foods are many (largely in time saved by the housewife), but it is discomforting to contemplate the taste of a frozen fried egg or to visualize a clump of frozen grits with a neat but solid square of butter on top.

Breakfast is an altogether different sort of meal than lunch or supper. And it does not entail a great amount of time in preparation. The picture of tenderly beginning the day together over the toaster is fading, but frozen breakfasts do have implications for the family.

While everyone can stand in awe of the technological achievement of a frozen four-minute egg, it won't do much to bring out the sunny sides of early morning dispositions.

Young Turks May Topple Military

By DREW PEARSON

SAMSUN, Turkey—If you cruise along the Black Sea coast of northern Turkey you see the huge round bubbles of American listening devices atop the hills. They are watching for Russian missiles. The Russians know this. It is no secret. All they have to do is sail along the international waters of the Black Sea and look up at the hills.

It is here that you come face to face with the stark reality of American-Soviet competition; with the fact that these two powerful nations are spending a total of $100 billions annually on armament. It is here that you can also compare the possibilities of co-existence between the socialist - capitalist worlds.

President Kennedy, in his American University speech, has pointed to the futility and danger of the military race and has launched on a policy of co-existence. Yesterday I reported that as between the Communist countries and our ally, Turkey, we were losing the race.

However, there are also some favorable factors. First, some young new leaders, such as Ozer Turk, governor of Kuzadsi, who are trying to overcome the autocracy of the Turkish military. Second, the vigorous democracy in nearby Greece is encouraging.

Third and more fundamental, the Communist countries have undergone a great change. They recognize this change themselves by no longer referring to themselves as Communists, but as socialists. This is deliberate, and the description is accurate. For the tough, unrelenting communism of Stalin's day is past, replaced by a liberal socialism and even a certain amount of free enterprise.

The success of the Rumanian cooperatives, for instance, is partly due to incentive payments for higher farm production. The same incentive payments are being used in Soviet factories. This is capitalism, not communism. Part of Rumania's building boom comes from bank loans and personal savings. Even anonymous, numbered bank accounts are permitted.

Madison Avenue in Moscow

Furthermore, the Communists have now gone for a Madison Avenue type of selling. They have become indefatigable salesmen for their bathing beaches, their tourist resorts and various beauty spots. This may seem routine to us, but it's a long way from the old days when Stalin let no one in or out of the tightly restricted Communist world. He was afraid to, for fear they might defect. The fact that this policy has been changed is, of course, a sign of strength, but it's also a step toward free enterprise.

When I was in Sochi, the big resort city on the Black Sea, I was invited to speak on the Russian radio, and as far as I know, was the first American to do so. I had just talked to Khrushchev and offered to report on this on the radio. Those who interviewed me were interested in Khrushchev, but they were more interested that I talk about the beauty of Sochi—"our town," they called it. They had just as much pride in "our town" as any chamber of commerce in the U.S.A. in its town.

After I had paid tribute to the beauty of Sochi, which I could do with justice, and also had reported on the Khrushchev interview, the radio interviewer said: "Now tell us some more about Sochi."

New Generation

In brief, a new local pride and a new regionalism are developing in the once monolithic Communist world. With them have come better education, more liberalism in the press, even critical letters to the editor, more challenging discussion in the universities, and a greater freedom to challenge government mistakes.

The people who are leading this change are not going to bolt the socialist system, and the junior partners of the Soviet—Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, et al—are not going to bolt away from Moscow. Yet they do stand up and talk back to Moscow. Both Rumania and Bulgaria won greater economic concessions from Moscow recently by talking tough than Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has won out of Washington by talking tough on political matters.

All these people, including the younger generation in the Soviet, are our potential allies, as Paul Hoffman has pointed out, "because they want what we want—tranquility to pursue their careers and improve their standard of living."

This is especially true since Red China drew such a sharp line between the policy of militant communism and peaceful co-existence.

"These new men," said Paul Hoffman, "are growing rapidly in number and prestige. Our problem is to get to them."

In my opinion, Kennedy's new co-existence policy is getting to them and also to the people of the other Communist states. My own observation is that Americans are more popular in these countries than the British, French, or any other western peoples. This is a broad statement, but I believe an accurate one. And if the people of these once-isolated nations become genuine friends of the American people, it will be a very important adjunct to President Kennedy's policy of co-existence.

Your Wallet and Proposed Tax Changes

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The best reason for celebrating Labor Day was probably found in the Treasury Department summary on effects of the House Ways and Means Committee's proposed tax cuts for annual incomes of $10,000 or under.

These are preliminary estimates. The tax bill has yet to be approved by the full House, then run the gantlet of Senate Finance Committee hearings and Senate passage.

But as of now, after seven months of committee wrangling, the main provisons as they will affect your 1964 income look like this:

The largest share of the individual income tax cut will go to 85 per cent of the taxpayers who are in the low and middle income groups. Those with incomes of $3,000 and less would get tax cuts averaging 40 per cent after two years.

Extreme example: Married couple, two dependents, $3,000 income, joint return, standard deduction, now pays $60 taxes. Under the new schedule, this couple would pay no taxes.

Taxpayers with incomes of $3,000 to $5,000 will average a 26 per cent tax cut. A married couple, two dependents, $5,000 income, joint return, standard deduction, now pays $300 taxes. Under the new program, $223.

Taxpayers with $5,000 to $10,000 annual income will average a 20 per cent tax cut. A married couple, two dependents, $10,000 income, joint return, typical average itemized dedutcions, now pays $1,196 taxes. Under new program, $994.

Taxpayers with incomes over $10,000 will average a 15 per cent tax cut. They would also benefit from other special provisions applying to all taxpayers.

The most important change is a new minimum standard deduction for taxpayers who do not itemize their deductions. It would be $300 for a single taxpayer, $400 for married couples, an extra $100 for those who are blind or over 65 and another $100 for each dependent up to a maximum of $1,000.

Deductions of up to 30 per cent of gross income would be allowed for gifts to all publicly supported organizations.

Workers forced to move to accept a new job would be able to deduct their moving expenses.

There are a few losses for low income taxpayers, too:

State taxes on gasoline, auto licenses, drivers' permits, alcohol and tobacco will no longer be deductible for federal income tax purposes unless they are a business expense.

Poll taxes and miscellaneous special state taxes on admissions would no longer be deductible. The only state taxes that would be deductible on federal returns would be those on real estate, state income and general sales taxes.

Waiting period before sick pay becomes excludable would be extended to 30 days; $100-a-week limit to remain.

A taxpayer who gets medical insurance benefits from more than one policy for the same illness would be required to pay taxes on all payments received above actual illness cost.

Deductions for casualty or theft loss on nonbusiness property would be eliminated on the first $100 of such loss.

The 4 per cent tax credit on dividend income would be repealed, but the amount of dividends that could be excluded from such tax would be raised from $50 to $100 for each person.

Elderly taxpayers would get additional tax benefits from the new bill. A single taxpayer over 65 with $2,000 income and standard deduction now pays $120 in taxes. Under the new program it would be $65. A married couple, both over 65, standard deduction, $5,000 income now pays $420 in taxes. Under the new schedules, $290.

The present one per cent floor on deductions for medicines would be eliminated for taxpayers over 65.

People over 65 who sell a home owned five years or more would not have to pay capital gains coming from the first $20,000 of the sales price.

America's farm families would benefit from the new tax bill largely through general reductions in individual income tax rates.

The important thing to bear in mind: none of the proposed changes will have effect on taxes paid on '63 income.

First taxpayers to use the new rates will be those who must estimate their 1964 income for the report which has to be filed by March 15, 1964.

Fear Is Yesterday's Ghost

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Last summer when my sister and her family were visiting us, our neighbor's boy turned the hose on my 7-year-old niece. My sister made such a fuss over this that the child would not play in our back yard again. My sister and her family are here again and this child won't go outside to play. She sits around in the house all day under everybody's feet because she is still afraid of this boy. She won't even go out on the front porch.

ANSWER: It may not work but I think that your niece could do with a reminder of the truth that time has passed for this boy as well as for her. It has made them different from the children they were last summer.

So why don't you consider the idea of saying to this scared youngster who believes she's the same person she was last summer, "Look at yourself! You are not the girl Billy doused with the hose last summer! Look at yourself! You're taller. Your hair is longer. This fall you'll be going into the third grade instead of the second grade! You're different from what you were last summer when Billy turned the hose on you. All right, he's different, too. How can you be sure that he still wants to turn the hose on you? Why don't you go right out in that front yard and find out?"

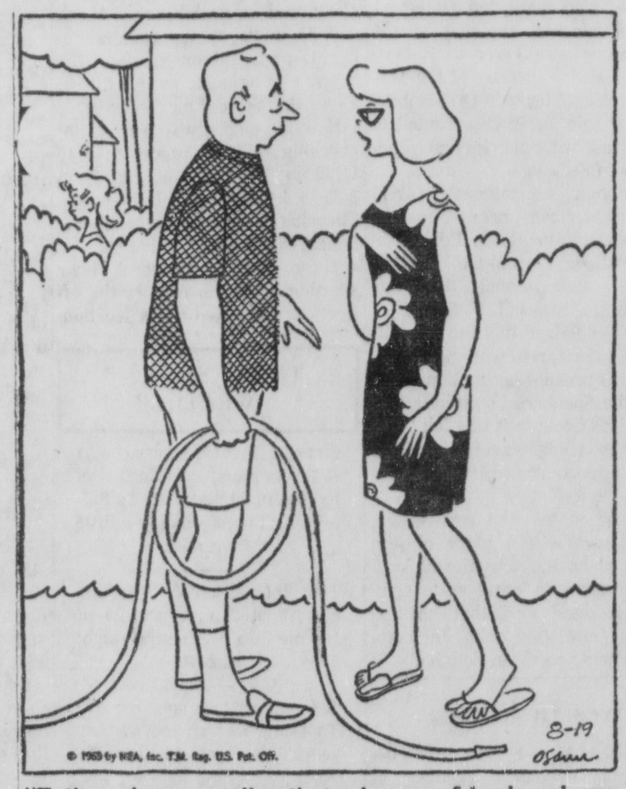

We relieve a child of fear by leading him to see it from a fresh viewpoint — not by trying to destroy that fear.

It's the peculiar power of fear to stop time for us, to lock us in the past moment of shock, hurt or helplessness when the boy next door turned the hose on us, a friend insulted us or our car collided with another one. It insists that we cannot move past that moment, that we cannot grow or develop a new point of view about the bad thing that happened to us. But fear is a liar. Boys outgrow their desire to douse us with water. Friends begin to miss us and regret our absence. And the exact circumstances which brought us into collision with another car are never going to be duplicated again.

This is the truth, and a child who is locked in some past moment of helplessness is sometimes able to recognize it if it is declared to him.

By reminding your niece of the changes time has made in her and the boy next door, you won't destroy her fear of him. But you may help her to sustain it instead of yielding to it.

Marriage Ups-and-Downs

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader raises the question: Do all marriages go through periods of depression

The answer is a qualified "yes." All marriages may not have their low periods — but probably most of them do.

It is too much to expect a marriage to stay the same, year in and year out.

The wise wife isn't dismayed when her marriage seems to be less happy and rewarding than it once was, or when she realizes that work and worry and the demands of living seem to be pushing husband and wife a little apart.

When those times come, the wise wife doesn't dramatize her unhappiness or accuse her husband of having changed in his feelings toward her. She goes right on about her job as homemaker, wife and mother, trying to create as much happiness for the whole family as she can.

She makes herself stay cheerful, and to the best of her ability makes home as pleasant for him as possible.

She knows that if she calmly goes about living her life as happily as she can, the period of depression will pass.

If she is happy — or at least content — her happiness will be catching. But no matter how hard a woman tries, she can't make a man happy just by striving to please him.

Key, Luggage and Keys

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — When a family has several pieces of luggage, it is always a scramble to know which key opens which bag. We use different shades of nail polish to put a dot on the lock of a bag and a dot of the same color on the key which opens it. You will be saved a lot of time and patience trying all your keys in the different bags. — MRS. F. E. U.

DEAR POLLY — Cupboard space is at a premium in the small house where we live since my husband retired. There are two small closets in the bedroom and I find the limited space works better since I put all the long clothes in one closet and half-length things like skirts, jackets, blouses and shirts in the other one. I had two shelves put under the half-length clothes to provide a place for bedding, linens and other things that require shelf space. — R. H.

GIRLS — This arrangement would leave the linen closet (if you have one) free for some other use. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Since I am short and at an age where I should not be climbing up on chairs to reach things, I enlisted the aid of a large pair of outdoor barbecue tongs. They are also handy for children who learn to use them easily or for ill or older members of the family.—MRS. J. H.

GIRLS — Climbing on chairs is dangerous business for any of us at any age. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When you take down draperies for washing or dry cleaning, stick the pin hooks into a bar of soap. They will not get scattered and it will be easier to push them back through the fabric.—MRS. M. D.

DEAR POLLY — Do you ever find, after leaving a supposedly long enough thread in your sewing machine, that it pulls out of the needle when you start to stitch again or tangles in the bobbin? I have a time, temper and thread sewing solution. Double a piece of cotton fabric to about two by three quarters of an inch. When you come to the end of a seam on the garment you are making, stitch on across this folded scrap of material. Clip the thread between the garment and the scrap and leave the scrap on the machine. When you start the next seam, stitch across the fabric first and then right on to your seam. Clip the scrap off and reuse it many times. — A. W. B.

DEAR POLLY — One of the quickest and easiest ways I know to wash the ceiling and walls of a porch is to use the hose plus a long handled car washing brush. One can reach every crevice and edge. — G. E. J.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Nausea Need Not Stem From Basic Organic Cause

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.

Q — I am a 55-year-old housewife. I have had nausea without actual vomiting for several years. Stomach ulcers have been ruled out. I do have bloating at times, but according to doctors I have seen there is nothing wrong with me. They say it is all in my head. Have you any advice?

A — Nausea may be caused by various poisons (including alcohol), anemia, cirrhosis of the liver, acute infections, and jaundice, but I doubt from your letter and the length of time you have been nauseated that you have any of these disorders.

It is much more likely that your nausea is a part of a choronic, low-grade colitis. This would also cause a tendency to bloating.

The fact that your doctors found nothing organically wrong with you does not mean that it is all in your head, but it is true that your emotional state probably has a great deal to do with it.

Have you ever noticed that you were not troubled with nausea when you were on a trip or vacation? This could be because you had left your worries behind.

Are you worse during the week than on weekends?

This might be because your husband is more irritable when he has worked hard all day and comes home tired and disgruntled at night. Or are you worse on weekends?

This might be because your husband is restless and keeps you in a turmoil from morning till night when he's at home.

Of course, it may have nothing to do with your husband. But, if you look for the sources of irritation or anxiety in your life, you may find that they are definitely related to a worsening of your nausea.

Q — I have arthritis and my doctor is giving me a dietary supplement containing calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D. Will this cause any harm?

A — I'm sure your doctor would not give you so large a dose of these supplements as to cause any harm if you take them according to his directions. You should report back to him from time to time to let him know what progress you are making and to give him a chance to adjust the dosage if necessary.

Q — What effect does taking alcohol have on barbiturate sleeping pills?

A — Don't try it. Alcohol taken with a barbiturate more than doubles the depressing action of the barbiturate. If a person is slightly intoxicated when he takes the barbiturate he may take more pills than he intended. In any case this is a dangerous combination and one that has caused many deaths in persons from all walks of life.

Even the smallest child eventually learns to conquer his fears and step on a moving escalator. When escalators were first introduced, there were many adults who were afraid to use them. No wonder. The early type of escalator was in the form of a conveyor or endless belt on which cleats were provided for riding stability. Jesse W. Reno was issued a patent in 1891 for an inclined elevator, which was later modified and called the Reno-type escalator.

THE BEGINNING—The first operation in making a gem for a pendant or other item of jewelry is cutting the stone into slabs. This diamond-studded saw operated by L. A. Duff can do the work on a three-inch rock in a matter of minutes. A coolant running against the blade carries off the dust and lubricates the blade to keep it cool. This rig is homemade, with the exception of the blade, mandrel and motor.

'Rock Hound' Hobbyists Dig Into Earth's Secrets

By RALPH JONES

Sedalia's "Rock Hounds" are just about the most down-to-earth people we ever met. Like all hobbyists, they like to talk, and because they like to talk, they make an extremely interesting group.

Rock hound talk covers many subjects — archaeology, geology, biology, mineralogy and other subjects connected with the structure of the earth. In rocks they find history, beauty in design, color, prehistorical animal life and other interesting things through knowledge.

The men who make up the rock hound group come from every walk of life, and many take up the hobby after they retire. We located three such hobbyists in Sedalia, in order to obtain the photos, but we found there may be dozens of others, in addition to several who are temporarily in Sedalia in connection with the Minuteman missile work here.

Dick Keenan, retired, Jack Custer, retired, and L. A. Duff, operator of an appliance store, agreed to open up their shops for the photos.

In talking to these men we found there are some hobbyists who specialize in certain stones, some who collect and work Missouri stones, some who work with any suitable stone at hand. Keenan works with all stones, but his specialty is making jewelry items from "Wyoming jade," a jade material found in the western part of the United States. Custer works primarily with Missouri stones, while Duff works with whatever he thinks will look nice.

All hobbyists have one thing in common. Regardless of what their profession is, or what it was before they retired, they are born horse traders. For instance a rock hound will make an unusual find. Word of the find passes from one rock hound to another, and before long he has dozens of offers for a trade.

Not long ago, Custer, who resides at 334 North Summit, found, here in Missouri, about a bushel of petrified oysters. He gave one to another rock hound, and the word got out. A Kansas City group sent two representatives to Sedalia to try to find out where the "find" was located. On questioning, Duff told the Kansas Citians, "I'll tell you exactly where it is located. It is in a bushel basket locked up in Jack Custer's shop." The men gave up and went home.

The oysters are perfectly preserved, and look as if they are freshly gathered from an oyster bed. Split open with one of the diamond-studded saws used in the hobby, the meat of the oyster, as well as the shell, is clearly outlined.

It must have been millions of years since oysters grew in Central Missouri, but the full story is clearly written in stone, and preserved for some rock hound to discover millions of years from now.

Keenan, who lives at 1413 East Fourth, obtains his raw jade stones from his son, James, who spent many years mapping the western part of the United States. In his trips into the mountains, young Keenan finds many unusual and valuable rock formations, which he tosses into a knapsack to take home and study, or to send to his father.

Keenan takes the raw rocks, cuts them into slabs, then into roughly formed pieces for items of jewelry. As jade comes in different colors, Keenan has formed many beautiful matching sets of jewelry, which he gives away to friends.

In splitting or slabbing the stones, a true rock hound is always on the lookout for an interesting design. Keenan has found a perfect map of South America, and a clear picture of a rocket going up.

Duff works with many types of stone, some from Missouri and some from other states, including items he has picked up in his many trips to Florida. His products of finished "tiger eye" stones are beautiful. This stone, like the eye of a tiger, glows in the dark when highly polished.

The equipment used by rock hounds differs greatly in design, but not in purpose. Most equipment is home made, with the hobbyist spending money only on things, such as saw blades and grinding wheels, that cannot be made in a home workshop. Equipment consists basically of a slabbing saw, a trimming saw and a series of grinding and polishing wheels.

One item of equipment is present is all shops. This is the tumbler, which tumbles stones for several weeks, until they emerge with a high polish. These odd-shaped stones are used for earrings, pendants, etc.

The methods of finishing differ with each hobbyist, with each man working with the materials he believes best suited for his operation. Several books on finishing are available in libraries, and anyone interested should read some of the books before selecting a finishing method of his own. Experience will improve the finishing procedure.

Most hobbyists stick to simple designs, as faceting machines, drills and other professional equipment are too expensive for the "ordinary" rock hound.

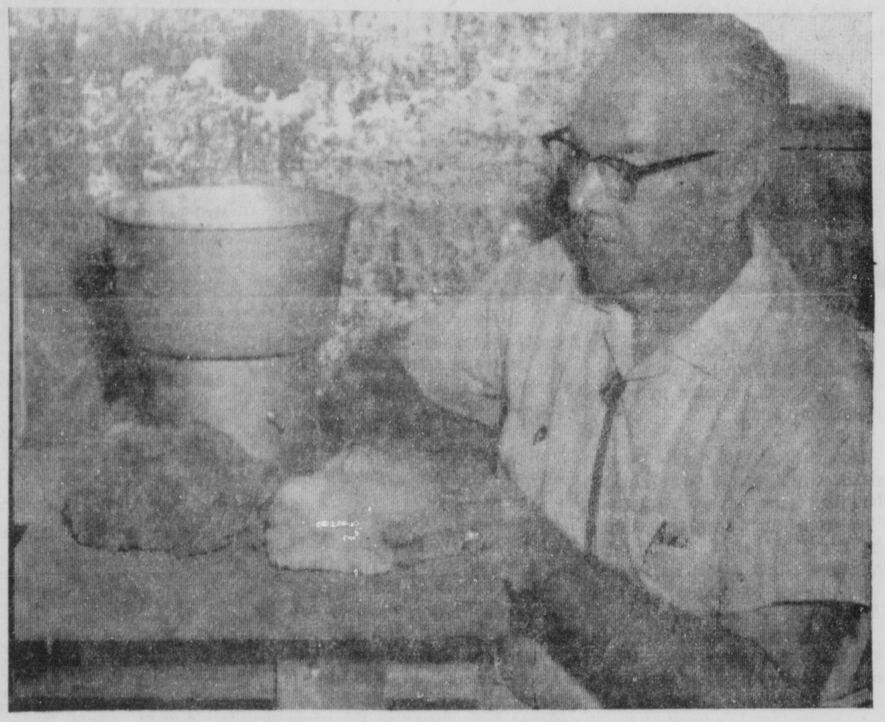

Rock hounds take up the hobby for many reasons, but two main reasons are always present—you get out of doors and learn a little about how the earth was made.

PETRIFIED OYSTER—The rare stones found in Missouri include some pertified oysters found by Custer in the Gravois Mills area. Above, he shows one of the oysters. In the background are some of the items he has collected, including sharks teeth from Florida. In color, this photo would show a great variety of beautiful stones.

THE RESULTS—Dick Keenan sorts out some of the satisfying results of his hobby. Many of the items have been on display in competition at the State Fair. Keenan makes the items, then gives them away to his friends.

ROCK HOUNDS collect all sorts of stones. Above, Duff shows a crystal nogel, formed by volcanic action, and a piece of petrified cedar found in Pettis County. The machine is one of many types of tumblers used by rock hounds to polish smaller stones.

POLISHING—The final step in turning out a gem is the polishing operation. Above, Jack Custer explains the uses for his multi-wheel grinder and polisher. This one is factory-made, but many rock hounds use washing machine motors, electric fan motors and other types of power for their grinders and polishers. Several wheels are needed to work the rough stone down to a high polish.

Don Knotts 'Overcomes' Nervousness

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In this television era so intensely dedicated to exploring in dramatic form the miseries, the frustrations and the diseases of man, there's one actor who has recovered from his nervous problems.

And that, of course, is Don Knotts, the slight little man with the woe-begone face, who first made it big in television by creating the most frightened, quaking character ever seen. Since moving out of the old Steve Allen hour, where his comedy specialty was playing an incredibly nervous fellow, Don has done very nicely playing—in a much calmer, healthier vein — Andy Griffith's deputy and side-kick. It has been a fruitful, comfortable assignment, for the "Andy Griffith Show" is now moving into its third CBS season, much of it spent on television's top-10 popularity list.

Knotts seems to have been a little ahead of his time in developing a specialty of playing neurotics. Back in the dear, departed days of live television, Don spent three frantic years playing a psychoneurotic on the soap opera "Search for Tomorrow."

At the same time he was doubling as All-American boy, playing Bobby Benson on a national radio hook-up and then rushing to a local New York television station to play Bobby in the flesh.

Knotts, who is a more hard-working actor than comedian, is reconciled to playing funny fellows.

But about retiring his nervous-man character he stays:

"Anybody who stays with one character for a long time gets pretty tired of it. The joy of our business is creating new characters, and that is particularly true in comedy work."

Don, a West Virginia native, has won three Emmys for his supporting role on the show—a part he dreamed up for himself. He had worked with Andy in "No Time for Sergeants," a stage play which first brought Griffith to public attention. When the television series was under consideration, he merely called his pal Andy on the telephone and suggested that the sheriff of Mayberry needed a deputy. Andy allowed as how he did, and Don had a permanent job.

Knotts and his family are now California residents, and Don has joined the propserous echelon of regularly employed television performers who uses his vacation periods to work in motion pictures and dreams of a time when he can become a full-time film actor.

"Think of it," he said wistfully, "really having time at your disposal to do a role properly. But we do the best we can with a five-day work week, turnout a show a week."

ABC will try to build a new look into old "Price Is Right" when it moves from NBC on Sept. 18 by adding a celebrity appearance. Betsy Palmer will inaugurate the new policy.

CBS slipped its big 90-minute special, "Hedda Gabler" starring Ingrid Bergman into the schedule for Sept. 20—just when Inger Stevens in making her debut as ABC's half - hour "Farmer's Daughter." That's tough competition.

Costly Musical--- O'Connor Ambition

By DAVID FARMER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Donald O'Connor, song-and - dance man, was musing over musicals.

"I'd like to see a musical made on the scale of 'Cleopatra,'" said O'Connor, who climbed to stardom in Hollywood musical spectaculars.

"You could make a helluva musical for $40 million—use about $7 million on the picture and split up the rest among the people who worked on it."

O'Connor, still boyish-looking at 37 after 27 years as a star, sat sipping a soft drink in the lounge of a hotel. He was headlining at the hotel on the first leg of a tour he expected to last 26 weeks.

O'Connor hasn't appeared in a splashy, all-color Hollywood singing and dancing epic in several years.

He talks about appearing in another musical comedy like "Singing in the Rain" — which some viewers felt was a classic satire on the breed.

O'Connor was harking back to his born-in-a-trunk childhood. He likes to say that he was on stage before he was born, because his mother appeared in the family vaudeville routine while pregnant.

"I stayed with the family until 1941, when we broke up," said O'Connor. "Then I went to Hollywood and was with Universal for 14 years—wonderful years.

"The only thing wrong was that I made great big musicals like 'Singing in the Rain,' 'Call Me Madam' and 'There's No Business Like Show Business' — and then I went and worked with a mule."

That was "Francis, the Talking Mule," who starred in a series of comedies with O'Connor.

Right now, O'Connor is touring with a show which he produced. In it, he dances effortlessly in a deft soft shoe, sings a medley of tunes in a pleasant voice, and gallops through some numbers with a herd of pretty girl dancers.

O'Connor said he's touring so he won't stagnate while waiting for the 1964 television season.

"I'm going through scripts right now. I'll have a situation comedy show next year, but I have to decide on the format."

Nude Poses Not Art, Star Says

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stella Stevens says too many actresses are taking off their clothes—and blaming it on art.

"It's insecurity that makes actresses pose in the nude—not art. There's more art when something is left to the imagination," argues the beautiful blonde.

What makes Stella's opinion more newsworthy than most is that she once posed for a seven-page nude layout in Playboy magazine.

"My insecurity was money — lack of it. I was flat busted—financially."

What started Stella off on the nude tirade was a reference to the recent Jayne Mansfield layout in the same magazine.

"Jayne said she did it for art. What a laugh. She's insecure about her acting ability—and she panicked.

"Every actress who announces a nude pose is in the midst of an acting slump. I hope I never have to do it again. I was embarrassed."

Stella said she posed for the layout not long after 20th Century-Fox dropped her contract.

"I had a baby son to support. I didn't know a soul in town I could appeal to. I couldn't go back to my home town of Memphis because I was involved in a custody case with my ex-husband and a judge had ordered that I be thrown in jail for contempt of court.

"I was insecure—and hungry. A photographer and his wife offered me the chance to make $3,000 for the layout. I took them up on it."

The layout apparently didn't hurt Stella's career although ministers in Memphis preached sermons about her and newspapers editorialized against her. She is one of the town's fastest rising stars.

Lions Visited By District Governor

Lions District Governor, Al Hammers, Gashland, Mo., governor of District 26-G, made his official visit to the Sedalia Lions Club, Wednesday noon. The District Governor was accompanied on his visit by State Secretary Gib White of Jefferson City.

Gov. Hammers reviewed the purposes of Lionism and called attention Missouri now has in excess of 350 clubs in the State of Missouri alone, and Lionism is represented in 122 countries with a world-wide membership of over 670,000. "In 1962 the Lions over the world reported 340,000 projects for which funds were used principally in blind work, children's activities, and charities.

"Here in Missouri we are proud to say our main project is the Missouri Lions Eye Tissue Bank of the University of Missouri Medical Center. Our budget for this year for the Eye Bank alone is $44,000," Hammers said.

"I call your attention to the Candy Day program of which Lions will seek contributions for candies, the money to go to defray the State budget and for visual handicap work of the local Lions Clubs throughout Misssouri. Gov. John M. Dalton, has throogh proclamation proclaimed the week of Oct. 6-12 as Visually Handicapped Week in Missouri. I seek this Club's assistance in this program," Hammers said.

The Governor continued by saying "Lionism is dedicated to help those less fortunate than ourselves. Value your membership in your own Lions Club and in Lions International. It is worthy to note these Lions Clubs in 122 countries are all striving for one purpose Peace and Freedom for all."

Secretary White spoke briefly on the Candy Day program explaining, the candy is not sold and is handed out for contributions. "The first to contribute, for a roll of mints was our own Governor Dalton, who accepted his candy and placed 'folding' money in the container."

The speaker, Gov. Hammers, was introduced by Dr. David Robinson, program chairman for the meeting.

President Neil Chapman presided and announced the Board meeting for Wednesday night.

Curry To Seek Nomination For Governors Race

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Charles E. Curry, 45, presiding judge of the Jackson County Court, Thursday became the fifth man to file for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1964.

He is the fourth Kansas Citian in the race.

Until Curry filed the front runners had been regarded as Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush of Kansas City and Secy. of State Warren J. E Hearnes of Charleston, in southeastern Missouri.

The other two candidates are Michael Kennedy and Milton Morris, both of Kansas City.

Curry's entry was immediately interpreted here as a political boon for Hearnes since it represented a split in Bush's Jackson County support. Bush said earlier he had expected Curry to support him. Hearnes also claims considerable support in Missouri's largest city, St. Louis.

Notified that Curry had filed against him, Bush said "It is a free country.

"Any man can file for the office of governor who so desires. Curry's filing has made no changes in my plans."

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Jones auto.

Edith North, 37, 2306 South Ingram, was treated at Bothwell Hospital Thursday night for an injured left rib after being involved in an accident at Third and Ohio. She was treated by Dr. G. A. Walker and later released.

According to police reports, the accident occurred at 7:36 p.m. Involved were a 1956 Chevrolet, driven east on Third by Mrs. North, and a 1956 Chevrolet, driven south on Ohio by Jerry W. Laudenberger, 21, 1405 South Stewart.

Medical Bill Sent To Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Kennedy Thursday a $236.4-million medical education bill to help train more doctors and dentists.

The three-year program, first of Kennedy's new proposals to clear Congress this year, authorizes $61.4 million for loans to students and $175 million to aid in the construction of new medical and dental schools throughout the country.

Its passage, 71-9, climaxed a 12-year fight.

Administration forces beat several Republican efforts to amend the measure and finally drove it to passage in the same form it cleared the House last April.

The closest squeak came on a 39-37 vote rejecting an anti-discrimination rider offered by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R.-N..

Also defeated, 63-18, was an attempt by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to knock out the $61.4-million authorization for student loans. Goldwater said the American Medical Association already has a student loan program.

"Sure the A.M.A. has a student loan program," said Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., "but they charge 6½ per cent. That's how generous they are."

The bill authorizes loans of up to $2,000 a year at slightly more than 3 per cent interest. They would be repayable over 10 years starting three years after graduation.

The schools, which would administer the loans, would have to put up $1 for each $9 of federal loan money.

Kennedy said the program would make it possible for many students to get a medical education who otherwise could not afford it.

'Law' Stalls NFO Meet In Wisconsin

BALDWIN, Wis. (AP) — Two police officers stood in the path of National Farmers Organization President Oren Lee Staley as he started for the stage Wednesday night at a meeting called by the Farmers for Freedom Committee to protest NFO activities.

The meeting at Baldwin High School developed into an NFO Rally and was terminated ahead of schedule amid chants of "we want Staley."

Unofficial estimates placed the crown inside the auditorium at 3,000 and the throng outside the building at 2,000.

When Staley, of Rea, Mo., attempted to walk from the wings to the stage, two St. Croix County deputies stood in his path. The officers said they made no attempt to restrain him and did not speak to him.

After the curtain was drawn against the continuing chants, six deputies took places on the stage as Staley spoke with newsmen.

Staley said he was in Baldwin "to accept all challenges they have made and will always be willing to meet anybody any time on any platform," and added, "we will not any time force our way onto a platform."

Staley then went outside to speak with backers in a parking lot.

He also said he would attend a stragegy meeting today on continuing NFO plans for a milk holding action.

The NFO met here Aug. 20, with Staley urging dairy farmer members to keep the pressure on processors to sign organization contracts in a drive for higher prices for farmers. NFO is seeking a price of $6.05 a hundredweight for milk for bottling. The August price for bottling milk sold unde rfederal orders on the Chicago market was $4.29 per hundred.
